LIFE OF VICE LAID AT KLAN CHIEF'S DOOR

Defense Expected To Bring Up Alleged Fox-Evans Fight Over Woman Today.

That Philip E. Fox, Ku Klux Klan publicity chief, deliberately killed William S. Coburn, attorney for the William J. Simmons faction of the organization, because Coburn had in his possession affidavits and information baring Fox's alleged illicit relations with women, will be the contention of the state in the sensational murder trial in progress before Judge G. H. Howard in criminal division of Fulton superior court.

The prosecution Friday disclosed the nature of its attack upon the insane plea of the defense during cross-examination by Solicitor General John A. Boykin, of W. H. Duncan, reporter for The Dallas (Texas) Times-Herald, who had declared that in his opinion Fox was mentally unbalanced at the time of the slaying.

"Would you believe," suddenly asked the solicitor, "that the motive for this killing was because a man had in his possession papers including an affidavit describing Fox's illicit relations with lewd women?"

The witness leaned forward to reply, but before his lips could form the words, the solicitor again fired a question.

Drunkness Charged.

"Did you know that Fox was drunk for three days before he killed Coburn; that in a questionable house he drew money out of a bank and gave it to women? Did you know that he was arrested? And do you still believe that Fox was insane?"

"If he did all these things I know he was insane," the witness immediately replied.

At this point Solicitor General Boykin reverted to a point of evidence brought out by the state in the morning session during the testimony of an employee of a local sporting goods store, who testified that on the day of the killing he sold Fox a long-bladed knife.

"Do you think that a man is insane," the solicitor asked, "when he goes out and purchases a knife, arms himself with a pistol, and placing the open-bladed knife in his pocket, goes

FIGHT IN COUNCIL
LOOMS OVER PLAN FOR PAY RAISES

Majority and Minority Reports Will Be Filed, Differing Widely on Amount of Hike.

Recommending a compromise schedule of salary increases of $7.50 a month for officers and $12.50 a month for privates in the fire and police departments, the majority group in the salary committee of council prepared Friday afternoon to make an aggressive fight in council Monday to sus-tain the recommendation against a proposal of the first ballot—a situation which would have an important psychological effect upon unpledged delegates.

After careful consideration it has been decided to extend the Coolidge political organization into all sections of the country with headquarters at Chicago, and seek delegates pledged outright in the president's behalf. In compliance with this new plan of campaign Senator James A.
Wadsworth, of New York, at the suggestion of Charles D. Hillis, national committeeman, has announced that he will not be a favorite-son candidate. It also has been decided to have the Alabama delegation pledged outright to the president, and the administration managers will disregard the local candidate who recently appeared in that state.

Watson Will Wait.

This also means that in Indiana,
Senator James E. Watson must enter the primaries as an anti-Coolidge candidate, if he goes in at all. The chances are that he will keep out, as he nourishes the hope of stopping in at the Cleveland convention as a compromise candidate should Coolidge and Johnson become deadlocked.

Likewise the Coolidge forces will fight Johnson in Illinois and leave no room for a campaign by Lowden.

President's Managers De-

Under Own Name.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, December 14.—The Coolidge forces have dropped their original plan of encouraging favorite son candidates, who were to withdraw at the proper time in favor of the president. This has been done to escape the danger of going into the Cleveland convention without a plurality of the first ballot—a situation
which would have an important psychological effect upon unpledged delegates.

Mercury To Drop
Below Freezing
Before Daylight

Note of Cheer Found in Prediction of Fair Skies Today.

Less water and more alcohol—wood or denatured variety—is all that will save the situation.

This prescription is read between the lines of the weather report for Friday night and Saturday morning, and suggested for automobile owners who are determined to forget to drain their radiators.

In short, it's going to be cold, four degrees below freezing, according to Forecasters C. P. von Herrmann, and the traditional mercury is going to hover below the freezing point in Atlanta for several hours Saturday morning.

A note of cheer, however, is seen in the prediction that the skies will be clear, and that Atlanta will thus be spared the sleet and snow that prevails in certain less fortunate sections of the country. The Washington forecast agrees with the local one as to clear weather, but adds that the weather will be slightly warmer in the northern section of the state.

The thermometer will drop to 27 or 28 degrees early Saturday morning, according to local forecasters, and will remain there for several hours, rising to a more comfortable figure before noon.

Millionaire Bandit's Escape
CENTRAL FIGURES IN CASE ARE MARRIED Brings Romance in Its Wake

Athens, Ga., December 14.—(Special).—A new chapter in the escape of Gerald Chapman, "millionaire mail bandit," was written this afternoon when Miss Coralea Ramey, nurse in the case, and C. P. Gore, assistant district attorney for the northern district of Georgia, were married at the home of Mrs. R. E. Fullilove, where the bride lives.

In the court investigation that followed the escape of the convict that the entire nation was asked to search for, Miss Ramey was questioned closely because she was the nurse attending Chapman at the time of his sensational escape. It was mainly upon her evidence that two New Yorkers, Abe Silverstein and Dominick DiLato, were indicted in the federal court here for complicity in the escape. She was taken to Gotham by court officials to identify the two.

3 SLAIN, 8 SHOT
BY NEGRO KILLER

Fleeing Black Believed Cornered by Posse in Slough Near Scene of First Killing.

Draw, Miss, December 15.—The dying body of Joe Pullen, negro, was dragged from a drainage ditch near here shortly before 1 o'clock this morning.

Greenwood, Miss, December 14.— Three dead and eight wounded were the known casualties tonight in a man hunt, which began shortly afternoon today, when Joe Pullen, negro tenant farmer, shot and killed W. T.
Sanders, planter, and escaped to a canebrake near Draw, 25 miles north of Greenwood, armed with a pistol and shotgun, and kept up a running battle with his pursuers at intervals throughout the afternoon.

Poses, with the aid of blood-hounds, still were on the trail of the fugitive early tonight with prospects that a night battle would be fought before he is taken prisoner or killed.

Sanders was shot through the heart and instantly killed when he went to the negro's cabin to arrange a settlement, and R. L. Metheven was shot to death as he approached a ditch in which Pullen had taken refuge.

The wounded includes A. L. Man-gum.

Bills Passed by Assembly

Pace Audit Bill—This creates a new auditing department in the state government for the purpose of auditing and checking expenditures of all state funds.

Ennis Revenue Enforcement Bill—This creates a new state department for the purpose of collecting delinquent taxes due on special, occupational, inheritance taxes and others.

Bill To Exempt New Industries From Taxation—This provides that new industries entering the state, or enlargements of present plants, shall be exempt from local and state taxation for the first five years, on a local option basis.

Bill To Amend Cigar and Cigarette Tax Act—This provides for collection of this new tax by the new revenue department and provides that necessary expenses of collection are to be defrayed out of the receipts.

General Tax Act—This provides for the state's revenue from other tax sources than the state ad valorem tax and special taxes imposed under other bills.

School Book Resolution—Provides for making of contract to purchase text books for the next two years, and local option clause on free text books.

Measures Which Failed.

Budget Bill—Was to have created new state budget commission with enlarged powers. Failed.

Income Tax—Was to have submitted proposal for state income tax to people. Lost when two houses failed to agree on amendments.

Classification Tax—To classify property for state tax purposes in hope of reaching "intangible" property. Failed.

Free School Books—To provide free text books for children in public schools. Adopted only in extremely modified form.

VERNER SLUGGED
AFTER REFUSING FOX TESTIMONY

Roadhouse Raided by Men and Woman, Demanding Proprietor Swear to Fox's Conduct.

A. M. Verner, 55, proprietor of Ver-ner's lodge on Peachtree road, the name of which figured in the Philip E. Fox murder trial Friday, was struck over the head with a chair and injured by a man who claimed his name was "Gwinner," Friday night.

The man, accompanied by a woman and a male companion, appeared at the lodge and informed Mr. Verner that he would force him to substantiate charges made by the state to the effect that on November 3, Fox appeared at the lodge in a drunken condition and threatened to "shoot it up" with a .45 calibre automatic revolver.

The unknown man also drew a pistol and threatened all occupants of the lodge unless the proprietor would volunteer testimony in the Fox trial, according to reports of the affair to county police.

Operatives of the solicitor general's department late Friday night stated that a man by the name of Gwinner was associated with Henry J. Norton, exalted cyclops of Atlanta Klan No. 1.

No further information along this line was available, and Mr. Norton had not reached home at 1 o'clock Saturday morning. Solicitor Boykin's operatives called attention to the fact that some person in no way associated with the case might have been impersonating Gwinner, and there was nothing definite to connect the Gwinner associated with Mr.
Norton in the affair.

Mr. Verner stated that he had closed his place of business for the night when the two men and the woman appeared and asked that they be admitted.

Pretty Woman Swallow Poison

Disappointed Wife, Failing in Suicide Effort, Swears To Try Again.

Failing in a first attempt to end her life by drinking a quantity of poison as she sat in the McLee Pharmacy, at 238 Capitol avenue,
Mrs. Georgia Reese, 20, and pretty, of 232 Capitol avenue, declared that she would make another attempt.

That her husband, Powell Reese, whom she sued for divorce several months ago, had mistreated her, was given as the reason for her resolve to end her life.

Mrs. Reese dissolved several tablets of strychnine in a soft drink about 7 o'clock and, while patrons and attendants of the drug store looked on, drained the glass. She arose to leave, but as she did she was gripped by the poison and fell in agony upon the floor.

A Grady hospital ambulance, driven by F. N. Trammell, rushed Mrs.
Reese to the hospital, where the poison was removed from her stomach.
It was stated at the hospital that Mrs. Reese reached there only a few seconds later the strychnine would have proven fatal.

A letter found on her person told

President of Mexico Takes Field at Head of Loyal Troops To Crush Rebels at Guadalajara.

FAKE ORDERS SENT TO CONSULS, IS CHARGE

General Advance of Government Legions Begins as Reports Tell of Federal Successes.

El Paso, Texas, December 14.—
President Obregon has taken the field and is personally leading the troops of General Amara and General Amara against the rebel stronghold at Guadalajara, according to an official report from Mexico City received by the Mexican consulate in El Paso Friday.

Thousands of Vera Cruz citizens have left for the capital to secure arms and join the federal armies, the report stated, adding that factory workers in Mexico City are receiving military equipment preparatory to joining Obregon troops in the Vera Cruz district.

The laboring classes are said to be rallying to the federal colors, indignant at the death of the president of the Vera Cruz labor syndicate, for which they blame the de la Huerta rebels.

Rout Estrada Forces.

A military dispatch received in Juarez declares the rebels under General Enrique Estrada were routed completely by federal troops at Jalisco Thursday. Unofficial advices also told of 17,000 federal troops marching toward Vera Cruz. Following a conference in the capital, with Minister of War Serrano, General Urbuley is said to have left for Vera Cruz with an additional force of 2,000 men to engage the rebel general, Sanchez.

Revolutionary headquarters also had reports of successes in the field.
Oriental has fallen into their hands,
it is claimed, and General Jose Garza is marching on San Marcos, an important junction point, which thus far has been successfully defended by troops of the government.

Other Federal Successes.

The expected exodus of Americans from Vera Cruz has failed to materialize, the rebel leaders say.

In Guerrero, General Escobedo, previously reported in sympathy with the revolution, has announced his loyalty to President Obregon, and has prevented a million rounds of government ammunition from falling into rebel hands. General Jesus Aguirre, commander of fiscal guard in northern Mexico, passed through Juarez Thursday en route to Sonora to take command of federal troops.

Jesus Teran, of squier's staff, has become fiscal commander in Juarez. Business is proceeding as usual in the capital, Teran said, and there is no fear of the outcome of the uprising.

As for the "principles" at stake,
the revolutionary coup has demon-

Governor Walker Says Formal Statement From Him Is Unnecessary.
Leaves on Hunting Trip.

SENATE DODGES VOTE ON COMPROMISE PLAN

Offer of House to Recede on Two Income Tax Amendments Not Even Given Consideration.

After 38 days of existence, the extraordinary session of the Georgia general assembly came to an end at 6:30 o'clock Friday night with the adoption by both houses of a joint resolution to adjourn sine die.

Adjournment left the Lankford constitutional income tax measure, most important of the various bills considered at the session, last, by inability of the two houses to agree upon amendments made by the house. The seventh and final conference committee on this bill reported its inability to reach an agreement late Friday afternoon.

Another important measure which failed to pass is the house bill to repeal the tax equalization law. This was passed in the house early in the session, but the senate amended so as to virtually defeat its purpose and, on Friday afternoon finally refused to recede from its position.

Governor Walker, who left the city
Friday night to spend a week in Ben Hill county on a hunting trip, stated that he felt it unnecessary for him to make any formal comment on the session just closed.

"I expressed my position as clearly as I could in the message I read to the assembly last Wednesday, said the governor. "The house, by adopting the resolution instructing its committee to recede to the senate on two amendments to the Lankford bill, asking the upper body to meet this concession by receding in favor of the house position on the third, concurred in my position. The position its members took in adopting the resolution coincided with mine. The senate, however, saw fit to disagree and, in fact, never voted on the proposal as contained in the house resolution. I see no need of expressing my view further."

Made Solons Responsible.

In his message delivered Wednesday, the governor put the responsibility for failure to enact essential tax reform legislation squarely upon the shoulders of the assembly, stating that he had done everything within the power of his office to bring about the desired end.

It was generally conceded by observers and members of the assembly that the house, by adoption of its resolution of instructions, had fellowed the governor to the fullest possible extent and that therefore, it blame for failure to pass the Lanford bill, if blame there is, can only be placed at the door of the upper house.

Refuses To Recede.

Shortly before adjournment on Friday, the senate voted down a motion to recede from its stand on all three

News Outside the Door

The birth stones appropriate for persons born in December are the turquoise and ruby. The Polish diet give the turquoise, and the ancient Jewish the ruby. The ater, standing for divine power, lignity and charity, is a transparent, deep-red gem, usually a corundum, but sometimes of spinel. The finest rubies come from Siam, Ceylon and Burma.
Spinel, seldom fit for jewelry, is found in Orange county, N. Y., and Sussex county, N. J., while Corundum gems are sometimes found in Arizona, New Mexico, North Carolina and Colorado.

Turquoise, standing for cheriness and prosperity, is an apple-green or sky-blue opaque to subtranslucent hydrous aluminum phosphate found massive in alu-minous clays, kaolin, shales, and clay slates in primary formations.
The pits from which the ancient Aztecs mined turquoise in New Mexico to adorn their religious mask and other paraphernalia have been reworked with some success.

There are mines in Persia from which the gems have been taken for thousands of years. This mineral is softer than quartz and the coloring is due to copper.

GIVEN $3,000,000

Chicago, December 14.—A gift of $3,000,000 to Northwestern university from Mrs. Montgomery Ward, widow of the mail order merchant, was announced tonight by President

Walter Dill Scott. This is the largest single donation ever received by the school.
At the suggestion of Mrs. Ward, the university will create a large memorial center on the McKinlock memorial campus, near Chicago's downtown business section, and will name it the Montgomery Ward memorial. This memorial center will house both the university's medical and dental schools and will specialize not only in training of students in medicine and dentistry, but will actively serve the Chicago community in welfare work.

AS PLANE FALLS
DURING BOMBING

San Antonio, December 14.—Lieutenant Earl D. Willis and Private De Ainand, an enlisted mechanic, were immediately killed today when their plane crashed to the ground during a bombing practice. Due to the roughness of the bombing range, no rescue planes could land near the plane of Lieutenant Willis, which burst into flames when it crashed.

MEAT FOR HEALTH

Veal Cutlets and Soup—Requires 3 pounds veal shank. Cook veal shank in boiling salted water until tender. Remove as much meat as possible from the bone. Cut the pieces to resemble chops. Take this veal and season well. Roll in crumbs, eggs and crumb again and saute in butter, oleomargarine or other preferred fat. Garnish with parsley. For the soup take the remaining portion of the shank and put it into a kettle with 3 cups brown stock and a few peppercorns, salt, celery salt and any other seasoning desired. Add 1-2 cup each of diced potatoes, turnips and parsley. Cook for one-half hour. This veal shank provides a soup and cutlets for a family of five. Veal Pot Pie—Requires 2 pounds veal neck. Cook in boiling salted water until tender. Trim all the possible meat from the bones. Add to white sauce which may be made by using 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons melted butter, oleomargarine or other preferred fat, salt and pepper, 1-2 cups milk. Scald milk, then add the margarine and flour, which has been made into a paste. Add seasoning. Make an ordinary biscuit dough and line a baking dish with this. Into the dish pour the meat and white sauce combined, and put a covering of biscuit over the top, being careful that there are small openings in the top for the steam to escape. Bake in a medium oven for twenty minutes. Serve with mashed potatoes and peas.

Jellied Veal—Serves 8. Time to prepare, three hours. Requires 1 pound veal, 1 can pimientos (cut fine), 3 tablespoons minced pickle, 1 pint hot stock, 1 tablespoon gelatin (granulated), 1 bay leaf, 1 slice onion, 2 cloves. Simmer the meat until it is tender. Remove the bones, and when the meat is cold, put it through the food chopper. Mix all together with remaining ingredients, and turn into a mold slightly greased. The sides of the mold may be lined with the slices of lemon or cold boiled egg. When the jelly is cold and set, dip the mold into boiling water for an instant, and turn the meat onto a platter. Serve with a garnish of lettuce or parsley.

BIG EXTRAVAGANZA PLANNED TONIGHT AT MARTHA BROWN

"Two Dark Secrets," a blackface minstrel skit, in which Robert Troy and Clarke Troy appear, will be the feature attraction when the curtain goes up at 8:30 o'clock tonight on the vaudeville extravaganza to be staged in the East Atlanta school auditorium by the Wesley class and Epworth league of the Martha Brown Memorial Methodist church.

Other numbers on the program include a negro preacher impersonation by W. W. Foote, reading by Mildred Cole, Dutch dialect feature by Gladys Cole, solo selections by Evelyn Youngblood and a duet by Margaret Thomason and Katherine Pittman.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF HELD DURING PROBE

J. B. Gibson, 35, who gave his address as Marietta, and who, according to Call Officers Williams and Poole, is a notorious automobile thief, was arrested and held at police headquarters Friday afternoon on a blanket charge of suspicion. Through his arrest, it is believed a number of missing cars will be traced.

Gibson was arrested by Call Officers Williams and Poole late Friday afternoon, following a telephone call from L. S. Sanders, at 268 Marietta street, who told them that Gibson was in his place of business and that he recognized him as the man who had sold him a stolen car in 1922. The officers went to the scene and arrested Gibson. While on the way to headquarters, he attempted to escape from the police car, but was subdued and handcuffed by Poole. Upon searching Gibson a heavy caliber revolver was found. He was charged on the police docket with carrying concealed weapons and marked "suspicious" pending investigation.

Three young men, Albert Jean, Lollie Brown and Eugene Young, were returned to Atlanta from Detroit Friday to await trial on charges of operating an automobile theft syndicate in Atlanta, following their arrest by Michigan authorities more than a week ago.

Efforts will be made by detectives to connect these men with the case of Evelyn Valentine, pretty 17-year-old girl who is being held at headquarters under a charge of suspicion. She was arrested after she was found in possession of a stolen car, which, she says, was given her by an "admirer." She is now under indictment of statistics. Of this amount, wheat contributed $189,466,500; oats, $56,184,083,500; and flax, $9,168,250.

Duke's
Home-Made Mayonnaise

Better than you can make!

You probably won't believe it until you have actually tasted this new home-made mayonnaise. After you have tried Duke's Home-made Mayonnaise you will never again bother to go to all the trouble to make mayonnaise.

Mrs. Duke uses just the same ingredients in her mayonnaise that you use—pure oil, fresh country eggs, the best of condiments and fresh fruit juice. These are all perfectly blended in Duke's Home-made Mayonnaise.

Packaged in three convenient size glass jars, "Duke's" keeps its flavor and uniform consistency indefinitely.

Mrs. Duke's Russian Dressing and Home-made Relish are both made with her mayonnaise. You've no idea what a variety of delicious sandwiches and salads can be made with them—and all in just a few minutes time.

OBREGON LEADS ARMY IN PERSON

strated little more than the fact that Mexican politics now as always, is simply a battle of the "outs" against the "ins." President Obregon, and there is some irony in the present situation, is threatened with the same kind of fate which he administered Carranza in 1920.

Carranza, when he prepared to retire from the presidency, handpicked Senator Banillas, then ambassador to Washington, as his successor. Obregon was a rival candidate. He and his supporters resented this "imposition," and staged a revolution.

Both helped Obregon. And now, four years later, it is charged that Obregon supported General E. Plutarco Calles as his presidential successor. De La Huerta, a rival candidate, deserts his old friend, Obregon, with whom he was allied against Carranza. De La Huerta cries "imposition," and starts a revolution.

Another touch of irony: Guadalupe Sanchez, the ruling general of Vera Cruz, supported Obregon in 1920, interrupted Carranza's flight to Vera Cruz, and was one of the leading factors in the revolutionary victory that eventually put Obregon in the presidential chair. Now Sanchez has turned against Obregon and is menacing his government with a strong drive toward Mexico.

Such are the fickle fortunes of politics in Mexico, where bullets still rule over ballots, as the popular method of changing governments.

OBREGON ARMIES IN GENERAL ADVANCE.
Washington, December 14.—A statement issued by the Mexican embassy here tonight said official advice from the Mexican capital reported that the general advance of federal troops against General Estrada's revolutionary forces began yesterday. The advance forces, under command of Generals Amaro and Amarillo, started from Irapuato, the report said, adding that a definite engagement with the rebel forces was expected shortly.

Forces, led by the rebel Generals Fermin Carpio and Magana, the advance said, had been defeated in northern Jalisco while trying to effect a junction with the Estrada forces. General Carpio, his brother Mario Carpio, and General Magana being killed in the action.

The government advance claimed that the entire west coast of Mexico from Sonora to Chihuahua, with the exception of the port of Manzanillo, was under federal control.

Claim False Orders Sent.
False reports and orders, some purporting to have been issued by the federal authorities at Mexico City, have been transmitted to Mexican diplomatic and consular officers abroad by the rebel factions at Vera Cruz, the advance said, in an effort to gain their adherence. A telegram, said to have been sent to the Mexican minister at Stockholm from Vera Cruz over the signature of Acting Secretary of Foreign Relations Saez, ordering him to return to Mexico, was not sent by the foreign office, the report said.

A telegram, which the embassy said had been received by the Mexican consul-general at New York, saying Vera Cruz had been taken by government forces and the federal department of foreign affairs established there and asking him to "wire funds care Mexican monetary commission," the statement said.

The embassy statement quoted the substance of further government advice as follows:

Cancel Consular Commissions.
A letter addressed to the Mexican Federation of Labor by the American Federation, protesting against the rebellion and showing full sympathy with the constituted authorities of Mexico City, which was printed in Mexican papers, has caused an excellent impression in all sections of the country.

"The ports of Vera Cruz in the Gulf of Mexico and Manzanillo in the west coast have been officially closed to international traffic.

"J. Alonzo Ullas, who was acting as Mexican consul at Brownsville, Texas, (leaving a large amount of government funds. Ullas's commission as consul as well as the commission of Francisco Alvarez Moreno, who was Mexican consul at St. Louis, Mo., and went over to the rebels, have been cancelled. Messrs. Alfredo Vazquez and Alfonso Pazquerra Alana have been respectively appointed to take charge of the offices at those places.

"The government at Mexico City is receiving numberless requests from laborers and private citizens from all over the country to be armed to fight the rebellion, a large number of them having left Orizaba to join the federal army.

"The government is advised rebel General Estrada's troops are deserting his ranks at the approach of the government army."

DECISIVE BATTLE LOOMS NEAR ESPERANZA.
Galveston, Texas, December 14.—A decisive battle in the vicinity of Esperanza in the state of Puebla is expected within a week, according to a telegram received today by J. Magana, Mexican consul from the Mexican embassy at Washington, quoting dispatches from President Obregon. Federal troops are concentrating at Esperanza for an offensive against De La Huerta, the message said.

GUNBOAT BRAVO TO BOMBARD REBELS.
Houston, Texas, December 14.—Five Mexican naval officers from Mexico passed through Laredo at noon today en route to New Orleans where they will take over the Mexican gunboat, Bravo, which has been in dry dock there, according to messages here. They are said to be under instructions to proceed to Vera Cruz to engage in battle with the gunboat Zaragoze, which is now held by the rebels.

GUNBOAT PREPARES TO PUT OUT TO SEA.
New Orleans, La., December 14.—The Mexican gunboat, Bravo, which has been in port here several weeks, undergoing repairs, has been preparing for several days to put to sea, to go to Vera Cruz, stronghold of the De La Huerta insurrectionists, and bombard that city.

FEDERALS RETAKE TEPIC WITHOUT FIGHT.
Nogales, Ariz., December 14.—Federal troops at Tepic, Nayarit, have retaken that city, routed the rebel forces and are pursuing them toward Jalisco, according to official advice received here today.

No resistance was encountered by the federal troops in their counter stroke against the rebels. General Heriberto Cases is heading the federal column pursuing the flying revolutionary forces.

The two Yaqui Indian chieftains in Sonora, Nori and Naph, have offered the federal government the services of 7,000 Indians to aid in putting down the rebellion, the Mexican consul here was advised by Governor Alejo Bayo of Sonora.

FOUR REBEL GENERALS ARE REPORTED DEAD.
Washington, December 14.—Publication in Mexico City newspapers of reports that the Calles and De La Huerta factions had been invited to send representatives to a "reconciliation conference" was mentioned by Charge Summerlin, of the American embassy at Mexico City, in dispatches received today by the state department. Mr. Summerlin said the reports had been received by the press from outside the city and he forwarded them without comment.

The Mexico City foreign office, the charge added, had confirmed the death of four rebel generals, Carpio, Magana, Chao and Gutierrez. Federal forces were said to have evacuated Esperanza.

Consul McEnelly, at Chihuahua, telegraphed that the state legislature had decreed, on the night of December 12, a moratorium effective at once and terminating February 13, 1924, for all banks in the state not chartered by the federal government.

A report from Consul Damm, dated Nogales, said "Sonora was still quiet, the man on the street evidently not being desirous of taking up arms."

Federal reinforcements about 300 strong, were reported as having arrived at Nogales and the dispatch said, Angel Flores, himself a candidate for the presidency, had declared in favor of President Obregon and reassured the government of Sinaloa.

Forgery Charged To Former Clerk At Fort Benning

New Orleans, December 14.—Frank D. Smith, former clerk in the infantry school detachment at Fort Benning, Ga., who was arrested here yesterday by federal secret service men as a fugitive from justice, will be taken next Monday to Atlanta where it is said he is wanted by government authorities on a charge of forgery, it was announced today.

According to federal authorities Smith, after being discharged, at Camp Benning, forged two army pay vouchers for $34.45 each.

For more than a year secret service officials attached to the Atlanta office have conducted a search for Smith, according to C. P. Arnold, in charge of the local office. Acting on information furnished them by the Atlanta officers, officials of the secret service in New Orleans located Smith and took him into custody.

Smith's alleged defalcations at Fort Benning are said to have extended over a period of several months in 1922, during which he is said to have forged the names of a large number of soldiers to checks amounting to more than $1,000, which he is said to have deposited in banks under numerous aliases.

"We have not made a close check on Smith's forgeries," declared Agent Arnold, "but his theft of checks will run more than $1,000. He will be brought back to Atlanta probably Monday."

HIGH PRAISE GIVEN TO NEW ESSEX SIX

The new Essex Six just announced by the Hudson-Essex organization, and now being shown in Atlanta by J. W. Goldsmith, Jr., Grant company, and the Porter-Minehan company, has created unusual interest among the trade and the motoring public.

According to General Manager Becker, his company's show room was crowded all day Friday, and several sales were made within a few hours after the doors were opened to the public.

S. C. Porter, head of the Porter-Minehan organization, and president of the Atlanta Automobile association, stated that their stores on Peachtree and in West End were crowded throughout the day, and that every indication points toward the greatest selling year in the history of the Hudson and Essex organization. All attendance for showings of this popular make of cars were broken early in the day.

The fact that the new Essex is a six and sells for an unusually low price for six cylinder cars of recognized value is considered the reason for the unusual interest shown by the public, according to local officials.

Tech Qualifies In Liberal Arts; Paid High Honor

During the annual session of the Southern Association of Colleges at Richmond last week the Georgia School of Technology was admitted to membership in the association, according to announcement made here Friday.

While the leading technical colleges are members of long standing in the associations of technical colleges, it is considered a distinction for a technical college to have the required liberal arts studies in order to qualify for membership in the Southern Association of Colleges, since admittance is confined, as a rule, to liberal arts colleges.

The association functions as the standardizing agency for colleges, universities and high schools. Virginia Polytechnic institute and Auburn share honors with Tech in being the other technical institutions in the association.

Being affiliated with the other national associations, graduates from the institutions in the Southern Association are admitted to advanced standing in other leading colleges of the country.

Emory university, the University of Georgia, Mercer and Georgia Tech are the Georgia colleges in the association.

Bond Commission Urges McCalley To Finish Term

W. L. McCalley, Jr., was requested Friday by the city bond commission to serve out his term as member of the school board or at least until the school bond building program is completed. In a letter to Mr. McCalley the commissioners declared that it would be impossible to replace him as actual head of the work as chairman of the finance and building committee of the school board and that his loss would be very detrimental to the city.

When informed of the commission's action he stated that he had given serious thought to reconsidering since announcement of his resignation had brought several resolutions of protest from teachers' and parent-teacher associations, and from many school patrons. The resignation is effective January 8.

"The school building work has consumed much of my time in the last two years and I believed that the program had reached a point where I could consider my civic duty done," he said. "I don't know whether I can afford to neglect my own business any longer."

The bond commission's letter follows:

Dear Sir: We, the members of the bond commission in session, learn with regret that you are contemplating resigning from the board of education. Such action on your part would be very detrimental to the city, and especially to the public school system. Our very close association with you in the expenditure of school bond funds has proven your worth, and we feel that the city has more efficient or honest public servant, and your wise judgment and untiring efforts have been invaluable in establishing a modern school system in Atlanta. We insist that you fill your term to which the people have elected you, or at least until the school bond program is completed, as you are familiar with its every detail, and at this stage of progress it would be well nigh impossible for anyone to fill your place. Yours truly,
BOND COMMISSION OF ATLANTA.

MELL WILKINSON GUEST OF HONOR AT FAIR SUPPER

Officers and members of the executive committee of the Southeastern Fair Thursday night honored Mell R. Wilkinson, first vice president of the fair, with a supper given at the Piedmont Driving club. About sixty-five guests were present.

F. J. Paxson dedicated a bronze tablet, inscribed to Mr. Wilkinson, which will be placed on the fair grounds. Oscar Mills acted as toastmaster.

Mayor Walter A. Sims spoke on "The Southeastern Fair as a City Asset," and Paul S. Etheridge, of the board of county commissioners, spoke of Fulton county's part in the success of the fair.

Oscar Mills, president of the fair association, was presented with a silver plate, bearing an inscription of appreciation for his work for the fair.

1,000 VOTES CAST IN LOCAL CHAMBER DIRECTORS' RACE

More than a thousand votes for the eight new directors to be elected to the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce have been received by the election committee, according to B. S. Barker, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who stated that he will close at 12:30 o'clock today, and urged that all members of the chamber vote before that hour. The board is made up of sixteen members, eight of whom are elected each year.

TWO GEORGIA TRAINS CRASH; NO ONE HURT

Columbus, Ga., December 14.—A coal car of a work train of the Central of Georgia railroad was turned over at the crossing of the Seaboard and Central near Hartsboro, Ala., early this morning, when struck by a passenger train of the Seaboard, according to officials of the Central of Georgia here. No one was injured and the damage was slight, local officials stated.

COMMITTEE ROWS AGAIN BLOCKADE CONGRESS LABORS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, December 14.—A row over the makeup of the committee which directs the legislative program prevented house ratification today of the personnel of its standing committees. At the same time, another effort to break the senate deadlock over the election of a chairman of the interstate commerce committee failed, and the situation there apparently was exactly where it was when the senate quit balloting last Wednesday.

Opposition by both republican insurgents and democrats of the house to the plan of republican organization leaders to have eight of their number on the rules committee developed to such an extent that it was decided not to present the committee list to the house for approval, as had been planned. Whether there is to be any change in the fixed ratio of eight majority and four minority members will be discussed at a republican conference called for tomorrow. The democrats will hold a caucus Monday to consider the question.

Slows Up Work.
Meantime, action on the committee personnel by the house has definitely been deferred until next week. This will delay organization of the ways and means committee which had planned to begin consideration of tax reduction legislation next Monday. Representative Green, of Iowa, who has been elected as chairman, will call the members together as soon as the house has disposed of the committee question.

Although there appeared for a time today a possibility of breaking the senate deadlock when balloting is resumed Monday, this virtually was dissipated by a formal announcement on behalf of the group of seven who have been supporting Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, the insurgent leader, that on Monday they expected to vote for Senator Howell, republican, Nebraska, for the interstate commerce committee chairmanship.

Stick to Cummins.
The announcement, which was issued by Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, said that if Senator Cummins, republican, Michigan, was more satisfactory to other republican senators than Senator Howell the insurgents would be glad to unite on him. Republican leaders said Senator Cummins, republican, Iowa, had been informed for the chairmanship by a regular party conference and that they would continue to vote for him until the conference had formally decided on some other senator.

With the insurgents supporting Senator Howell, the situation Monday would be exactly as it was during the three days of balloting earlier in the week with neither Senator Cummins nor Senator Smith, of South Carolina, the democratic candidate, able to muster the majority necessary for election.

In announcing that the insurgents would support Senator Howell, who ranks last among the republican members of the interstate commerce committee, Senator Norris said the insurgents had been approached "by an emissary of the so-called regular republicans, and the proposition has been made to us that in selecting the chairman of this committee, the rule of seniority should be overthrown and a selection for chairman be made from other members of the committee, regardless of length of service, either in the senate or on the committee."

"In order to break the deadlock, therefore, we have decided to follow this suggestion," Senator Norris added, "and when balloting is resumed next Monday we expect to cast our votes for Senator Howell, a member of the interstate commerce committee, with the hope that our effort of compromise will be acceptable to our associates and the deadlock broken. If Senator Cummins is more satisfactory than Senator Howell, we will be glad to unite on him."

Coalition Loomed.
For a time today it appeared probable that a coalition would be formed between house insurgents and democrats to displace two republicans selected for membership on the rules committee and to elect as members an additional democrat and one insurgent. Conferences were held throughout the day between members of the various factions after which republican organization and democratic leaders said an agreement might be reached whereby the minority would be given an additional seat making the committee membership seven republicans and five democrats.

This is the ratio democrats insisted upon when congress convened with the republican majority in the house greatly reduced. The republican committee on committees, however, decided that the apportionment which prevailed in the sixty-seventh congress should continue, and the result today on the part of the democrats largely was the result of this action.

Truce Come Fast.
Unable to muster a majority when the question of approving the committee personnel comes up in the house, a number of democrats have proposed that an alliance be formed with the insurgents, a proposal that was welcomed by the latter, who suggested that an agreement be reached to place an out-and-out insurgent on the committee as well as one more democrat.

Conversations between republican organization and democratic leaders, however, developed a willingness on the part of at least some of the republicans to give the democrats a fifth committee seat, the understanding being that the minority as a unit would not align itself with the insurgents to disturb further the prospective committee personnel.

U.S. Aid Pledged In Topographical Survey of County
Federal assistance in making a topographical survey of Fulton county and the part of DeKalb county into which Atlanta is growing, was assured by Alderman Claude E. Buchanan, Chief of Construction, William A. Hansell and Clarke Davidson, sewer engineer, during a series of conferences in Washington, this week with officials of the United States Geological survey, they stated on their return to Atlanta Friday. The government is to work in cooperation with the city and county.

The proposed survey will enable Atlanta to build its sewer system to conform to future needs, which New York's is built, Engineer Donaldson said. Sewer mains laid in New York fifty years ago are large enough to fill the needs of the city of today, although it is more than twice as large as it was when the mains were laid. Atlanta's principal mains, he said, were built thirty or more years ago looking toward serving a city of 125,000 population and in many cases are proving inadequate for the present population of 250,000.

EXTRA SESSION OF ASSEMBLY ENDS

points in dispute on the Lanford measure, the vote being 28 to 17. The upper house, however, never voted at all on the proposal embodied in the house resolution of instructions.

During the final hour of the session agreement was reached on the general tax act. Conference committees on disputed minor amendments to this act reported an agreement late in the afternoon and both houses voted to accept the report.

Probably the most important issue in these amendments was that to create a state boxing commission, to control all boxing bouts in the state and to be supported by a tax on the gate receipts. This amendment was lost in the final action of the committee.

Passes Milner Bill.
During the final day of the special session, the assembly passed the Milner bill, amending the cigar and cigarette tax act enacted at the last regular session. As originally passed in the house, the measure provided that the controller general should be empowered to defray expenses of collecting this tax out of the receipts, subject to the approval of the governor. The senate, however, amended it to place its collection under the new revenue enforcement department, created by the passage of the bill on Thursday. The house concurred in this, and all other amendments of the senate. One of these amendments provided that the excise stamp could be placed upon the carton instead of the individual package of cigarettes.

The assembly also passed a resolution providing for purchase of textbooks for public schools in the state for the next two years. As passed by the house this allowed the state school commission to purchase textbooks for textbooks on the best terms it is able to secure from the publisher. The senate amended it to provide that not more than fifty per cent of the textbooks in use now be changed under the new contract. The house agreed to the senate amendment.

Free Textbooks.
The bill also contains a permissive clause allowing any school district, city board, or other unit, in the state to provide free textbooks if they wish.

One of the most important amendments to this resolution was placed upon it in the house by Representative Simpson, of Lee, the insurgent. This provides that the school authorities must have a supply of textbooks on hand for the children at all times, thus doing away with the delay common at the commencement of school terms through lack of textbooks. It also provides that the school board may designate any agency to handle these books, which differs from the present law which provides that this agency shall charge a profit to itself of 15 per cent on the cost. This amendment, it is believed, will result in saving this 15 per cent to the children.

Recesses Frequent.
The greater part of the time of the house during Friday afternoon was taken up by recesses, waiting on committees or senate action. Just before the close, Representative Bennett, of Dodge, mounted the speaker's stand and asked every member who wished to do so to contribute 25 cents towards purchasing a Christmas present for Speaker W. Cecil Neill. Twenty-five dollars was collected by a committee composed of Mrs. Ennis, wife of the representative from Baldwin; Mrs. Napi, representative from Bibb; and Miss Keaton, representative from Fulton, was appointed to select the present and give it to Mr. Neill Saturday.

A slab of Stone mountain granite, taken from the monument to the confederacy now being cut on its face, was placed on the speaker's stand to receive the blots of the gavel. Representative Wood, of Fulton, explained that it is planned to have carved upon the sides of the slab a history of Speaker Neill's public career. At present, however, it is simply inscribed with his name and the date, "1923."

Senate Takes Action.
In rapid fire order just before the gavel descended in the upper house for sine die adjournment promptly at 6:30 o'clock, the senate voted final action against adoption of the Lanford income tax measure with the house amendments, received in all pending objections to the general tax act, and voted down a resolution stipulating that it recede on all of its amendments to the repeal of the tax equalization law. All of these measures were brought to their final stage within an hour before the curtain fell on the extraordinary session of the legislature.

Defeating 24 to 18 the resolution by Senator Adams, of the forty-seventh, which provided that the upper house recede on all of its amendments to the Lanford bill, all hope of effecting a compromise on this bill was killed and the measure which the assembly was called to consider by the governor failed of passage.

Prior to the vote on the Adams resolution, a number of heated speeches from proponents and opponents of the resolution enlivened the upper house. Senator T. S. Mason, of thirty-first, flayed the members of the senate who refused to recede from their positions, declaring that he was exceedingly thankful that a record vote would be taken in order that the people of the state might know what had "obstructed passage of the bill."

"Deny People Vote."
"There are in the membership of the senate, I am sorry to say," said Senator Mason, "a number of senators who are not willing to let the voice of the people express its sentiment with regard to a change in our present taxation laws. I am glad to say that the record vote will show who they are, and will also show those among the senate, who would willingly pass on to the voters the right that is theirs."

Senator Parker, of the third, defended the members assailed by Senator Mason, asserting that he was glad to have his name on the roll of those who "would prevent an unjust taxation measure to be handed down to the people of the state." He seconded the speech of Mr. Mason, and declared that he was going back to his home with a "conscience clear" and with his convictions, Senator C. D. Redwine, of the twenty-sixth, also concurred with Senator Parker in his views regarding the senate's action.

Vote On Resolution.
The record vote on the Adams resolution was as follows:
Against its adoption: Beauchamp, Boyd, Chastain, Davis, Ficklin, Garrison, Gilstrap, Grantham, Hodges, Hillender, Johns, Keith, Lotin, Owens, Pace, Passmore, Phillips, Redwine, Stovall, Smith, of the 30th, and Whitaker. Total, 18.

Those not voting: Cason, Coates, Douglas, Duke, Gillis, Johnson, Patterson, and Smith, of the forty-fifth. Total, 8.

Invites Governor's Message.
At the beginning of the afternoon session of the senate President Carswell delivered a message to the senate, in which he requested that the senate take final action on the Lanford bill, as amended by the house.

At the senate desires to pass the Lanford bill, as amended by the house, the senate failed to pass the bill.

house," declared Governor Walker when President Carswell's message reached him. "It can do so within five minutes without any message from the governor and it would require no further action by the house. I delivered in person a message to the general assembly last Wednesday, which clearly defined by position."

President Carswell did not take the floor after the governor's reply. Neither did he urge the body to recede from its position when Senator Adams introduced his motion providing that the upper house surrender to the lower house amendments. Senator Carson requested President Carswell to take the floor, explaining that Mr. Carswell's position, as publicly announced, was in favor of the house amendments.

Conference Fails.
The motion to recede was not made until after the seventh conference committee had failed to agree and the senate president had appointed Senators Hodges, Greene and Davis, opponents to the eighth conference committee. When the house received these names administration leaders halted proceedings and went into a conference to decide whether to appoint another committee.

In this conference the opinion was expressed that it would be useless to appoint another committee, the charge being made that the senate conference named would not compromise on the disputed amendments.

While this conference was under way the senate president declared that the senate reconsider its action in appointing members to the eighth committee. The motion was carried by a vote of 15 to 18. The senator then moved that the senate recede from its position on the bill.

Suggests Enabling Act.
"The contentions of the senate for the inclusion of the 'last act' as it is called, to income, the credit clause and amount of exemptions, are matters which should be settled in the ratification of the bill," declared Senator Adams. "The vote will give us an opportunity to show whether or not the people want an income tax."

Senator Adams urged a compromise be reached on the measure. Speaking in opposition to the motion, Senator Redwine, of the twenty-third, declared he had "learned to hate the word 'compromise' during the special session. Rather than accept the bill with house amendments, he said, he would be willing to take any blame that might come as a result of failure to pass an income tax measure."

Senators Redwine, of the twenty-third, and Grantham and others spoke in opposition to the motion.
Action by the senate on the equalization repeal bill was taken after the governor sent a special message urging its passage. The measure was passed by the house last summer and again during the extraordinary session by large vote.

Senator Johns, of the 27th, made a motion that the senate adopt the minority report of the finance committee, which insisted that the tax equalization bill be repealed. The majority report of the committee returned the bill to the senate with a recommendation that it do not pass.

Vote On Tax Repeal.
The recorded vote on Senator Johns' motion was as follows:
For repeal of the tax equalization bill: Senators Arrow, Boyd, Chastain, Garrison, Gilstrap, Henderson, Hodges, Hillender, Johns, Keith, Lotin, Owens, Pace, Passmore, Phillips, Redwine, Stovall, Smith, of the 30th, and Whitaker. Total, 18.

Against the motion: Senators Adams, Beauchamp, Davis, Ficklin, Garrison, Grantham, Hodges, Hillender, Johns, Keith, Lotin, Owens, Pace, Passmore, Phillips, Redwine, Stovall, Smith, of the 30th, and Whitaker. Total, 18.

Those not voting: Cason, Coates, Douglas, Duke, Gillis, Johnson, Patterson, and Smith, of the forty-fifth. Total, 8.

Ohio Town Mayor And 24 Tiffinites Indicted by Jury

Toledo, Ohio, December 14.—Mayor Adolph Unger, of Tiffin, Ohio, and twenty-four other residents of Tiffin were indicted by the federal grand jury Friday afternoon on the charge of conspiracy to violate the national law. The indictment recites a list of 42 alleged overt acts.

Unger, Eugene Grimes and Charles Bare, are charged with having formed a "partnership" at Unger's suggestion, to "go into the bootlegging business," and Unger is said to have promised to protect the business of the partnership by prosecuting competing bootleggers.

He also is said to have told his partners that if they were arrested he would influence fines which they would not have to pay.

In the beginning of the partnership liquor is said to have been received from Toledo, but later the men induced others to make moonshine for their use, it is charged.

4 ESCAPED CONVICTS SHOOT COP, 2 OTHERS

Minneapolis, Minn., December 4.—Four escaped convict who were cornered tonight shot and wounded a patrolman and two by-standers. One of the men was captured and taken to police headquarters where he gave the name of "Red" Ryan.

The patrolman, Norman L. Schaaf, was seriously wounded. All of the men are alleged to have escaped from the penitentiary at Kingston, Ont. Later they are alleged to have robbed banks at Detroit and Chicago.

HORSE KICKS CHILD IN FACE, KILLS HER

Athens, Ga., December 14.—A kicking horse killed last night the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. Queen, of Walton county. The animal kicked the little girl in the face with both feet.

Souza Concerts.
Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Souza's band will give two concerts in Rome on February 22 under the auspices of the Rome Music Lover's club, according to an announcement just made here. The guarantee of a considerable sum was necessary to secure the attraction, but this has been arranged. It is announced, and both an afternoon and an evening performance will be given here on the date mentioned.

Sets Cases for Trial.
Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Cases for trial during the January term of the superior court were being set by Judge Moses Wright this afternoon. The trial will open on the second Monday in January. Several felony cases are to be heard, among them one of assault to murder against Ada Robinson, a negro, who, while "cray drunk" shot Will Maynard, a Chattahoochee county farmer, who charged to be passing in front of her house at the time.

enter the president's name in the South Dakota primary. Meantime, the president is expected to write a South Dakota republican leader, acknowledging his endorsement by the state preferential convention.

The Coolidge-for-President club launched here a few days ago, now has 1,800 members, according to an announcement made Friday.

Friday was called for the purpose of agreeing upon a compromise schedule of increases which would meet the approval of Mayor Sims. The mayor had announced his determination to veto any increases which he believed that the city would be unable to pay, and had told the committee that $10 a month would be the highest increase the city could pay.

Mayor Noncommittal.
After the meeting he declined to state positively that he would veto the $7.50-$12.50 schedule, but did remark that he "believed the committee would have to do a little better than that."

When the committee met Friday, three general propositions were submitted, the straight $20 raise proposed by Alderman Carpenter, the $7.50-$12.50 schedule proposed by Ragsdale and a $3.81 schedule proposed by Wells, after conference with the mayor.

On the first ballot, Councilman Vaughan, chairman, voted for Alderman Ragsdale's compromise figure, and Councilman Wells discarded his schedule, voting with Ragsdale and Vaughan. "In order," he said, "that we can make a report on a reasonable figure that we can all fight for with some hope of getting some increase."

Alderman Carpenter was joined by Councilman Couch in supporting the $20 proposition.

Each class of employees was taken up in order separately. On each occasion, like Watson, is waiting for the lightning to strike at the convention. General headquarters will be opened by Coolidge forces at Chicago on December 27, and the national campaign will be waged from there instead of from Washington. Two reasons impelled Coolidge to locate his main base at operations at Chicago.

First, he wished to disassociate the campaign activities from the white house. He desires that the campaign be carried on by his friends rather than from the executive offices, and by locating his general staff in Chicago, he removes any appearance of making a political headquarters out of the white house.

Second, Coolidge is aware that he must make his real appeal to the middle west and the far west. So he sets up his staff on the scene of action, where it will be close to the battleground, and accessible to his lieutenants in every part of the country. Besides, there is something complimentary to Chicago and the middle west in this selection, and it will no doubt do a great deal toward soothing the hurt caused by the unexpected switching of the national convention from Chicago to Cleveland.

Good Is Aide to Butler.
In further recognition of the middle west, James W. Good, of Iowa, former member of congress, has been chosen to assist William M. Butler, personal representative of the president, in the management of the Chicago headquarters. Good's work will be regional. He has many connections in Iowa, Illinois and surrounding territory. Good was a Lowden man in 1920 and his association with the Coolidge movement now will help draw the former Lowdenites over to the administration.

James B. Reynolds, formerly of Boston, and Coolidge's manager in 1920, will direct the president's campaign activities here in conjunction with C. Bascom Slemph, the president's secretary.

CHICAGO WILL BE CAMPAIGN CENTER.

Chicago, December 14.—Regardless of whether Chicago gets a look-in on the national political conventions next year, the campaigns of most of the leading republican and democratic candidates will be carried on from Chicago headquarters.

General headquarters for President Coolidge will be opened in Chicago on December 27 by William M. Butler, director of the president's campaign. James W. Good, Chicago lawyer and former congressman from Iowa, will be in charge of Coolidge activities in the middle west.

Senator Johnson and William Gibbs McAdoo have already selected offices here as the centers of their campaigns. One of Good's first acts will be to draw the former Lowdenites over to the administration.

COOLIDGE FORCES DROP NATIVE SON CAMPAIGN

who, like Watson, is waiting for the lightning to strike at the convention. General headquarters will be opened by Coolidge forces at Chicago on December 27, and the national campaign will be waged from there instead of from Washington. Two reasons impelled Coolidge to locate his main base at operations at Chicago.

First, he wished to disassociate the campaign activities from the white house. He desires that the campaign be carried on by his friends rather than from the executive offices, and by locating his general staff in Chicago, he removes any appearance of making a political headquarters out of the white house.

Second, Coolidge is aware that he must make his real appeal to the middle west and the far west. So he sets up his staff on the scene of action, where it will be close to the battleground, and accessible to his lieutenants in every part of the country. Besides, there is something complimentary to Chicago and the middle west in this selection, and it will no doubt do a great deal toward soothing the hurt caused by the unexpected switching of the national convention from Chicago to Cleveland.

Good Is Aide to Butler.
In further recognition of the middle west, James W. Good, of Iowa, former member of congress, has been chosen to assist William M. Butler, personal representative of the president, in the management of the Chicago headquarters. Good's work will be regional. He has many connections in Iowa, Illinois and surrounding territory. Good was a Lowden man in 1920 and his association with the Coolidge movement now will help draw the former Lowdenites over to the administration.

James B. Reynolds, formerly of Boston, and Coolidge's manager in 1920, will direct the president's campaign activities here in conjunction with C. Bascom Slemph, the president's secretary.

Friday was called for the purpose of agreeing upon a compromise schedule of increases which would meet the approval of Mayor Sims. The mayor had announced his determination to veto any increases which he believed that the city would be unable to pay, and had told the committee that $10 a month would be the highest increase the city could pay.

Mayor Noncommittal.

When the committee met Friday, three general propositions were submitted, the straight $20 raise proposed by Alderman Carpenter, the $7.50-$12.50 schedule proposed by Ragsdale and a $3.81 schedule proposed by Wells, after conference with the mayor.

On the first ballot, Councilman Vaughan, chairman, voted for Alderman Ragsdale's compromise figure, and Councilman Wells discarded his schedule, voting with Ragsdale and Vaughan. "In order," he said, "that we can make a report on a reasonable figure that we can all fight for with some hope of getting some increase."

Alderman Carpenter was joined by Councilman Couch in supporting the $20 proposition.

Each class of employees was taken up in order separately. On each occasion, like Watson, is waiting for the lightning to strike at the convention. General headquarters will be opened by Coolidge forces at Chicago on December 27, and the national campaign will be waged from there instead of from Washington. THREE INDICTED FOR TOT'S MURDER

Catskill, N. Y., December 14.—Three indictments charging first degree murder in connection with the slaying of 7-year-old Howard Rothenberg in Windham, on August 23, one of them against the boy's mother, were returned this afternoon by the grand jury which has conducted an extended investigation into the tragedy. In addition to Mrs. Charles Rothenberg, of Newark, N. J., mother of Howard, those indicted are Mrs. Esther Litt, of Brooklyn, his aunt, and Burtell Branaugh, his uncle, and Burtell Branaugh, son of the proprietor of the boarding house in which the Rothenbergs and Mrs. Litt were spending their vacation at the time of the murder.

The boy's body was found behind an old barn on the outskirts of Windham, a little mountain village west of here. Stuffed in the mouth were articles of clothing, indicating strangulation as the cause of death, while beside the body lay the fishing rods with which Howard had left the Branaugh home a short time before.

Mother Denies Her Share.
His mother, one of the first persons called to the scene, is said to have cried out as she saw the body: "I know who did it!" But under questioning during the recent investigation she stoutly denied having made such a statement.

The suspicion pointed to Anna Sobin, 16, nurse for the Rothenberg boy, and she was held at the home of Sheriff Albert Pierce as a "guest" pending presentation of her testimony before the grand jury.

Soon after the crime took place and investigation was started, state troopers, New York police and detectives were called in. Conflicting reports between the district attorney and the sheriff were followed by the nervous breakdown of Mr. Coffin. The death of Coroner Claude D. Mulbury then effectually halted proceedings.

Threatened With Tragedies.
Further complications arose when the second investigation was begun several weeks ago. Most recent was the appeal of the Rothenberg boy, Thursday to Governor Smith that the state take a hand in the case. The charge was made that District Attorney Coffin had not conducted the case properly. Governor Smith declined to interfere, however, upon the report of Attorney General Sherman that the case was being "conducted in a reasonable manner and should not be interfered with."

Threatened through the case have also been a series of family misfortunes for the Rothenbergs. While on his way to Windham to view the body of his son, Charles Rothenberg, writing an automobile, struck and killed a traffic policeman. He recently was reported to have lost his position with his brother's firm in Newark and involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were started against him.

Burtell Branaugh was released tonight on $35,000 bond furnished by his father, Henry Branaugh, and an aunt. Mrs. Rothenberg and Mrs. Litt were placed in custody of their attorneys with the expectation bond bonds for a similar amount would be available tomorrow.

Anna Sobin is still a "guest" in the home of Sheriff Pierce.

PUBLIC SAFETY BILL PASSED IN IRELAND

Peasants Caused Invasion of Ruhr, Says Van Paassen

That the French and Belgian governments were not animated by desire of military or industrial conquests in their occupation of the Ruhr basin, but that they had seized German coal mines and blast furnaces as a provisional guarantee for reparation payments, was the contention of Pierre Van Paassen, of the editorial department of The Constitution, in an address delivered before the Civitan club at the Ansley hotel Friday afternoon. "After America came to the rescue of France and Britain at the most critical time in the history of the war, France was left alone to work out the provisions of the Versailles treaty and the pact of the league of nations, while the American people repudiated the statesman who had been largely instrumental in drawing up the peace treaty," he said.

"Not waiting for any hypothetical reparations, however, Belgium had gone to work and had achieved a notable progress in reconstruction work. The promises made by M. Clemenceau and M. Poincare were treated as grandiose, spectacular grandstand play by the people of Belgium, and they had repudiated advances of the extreme left wing of the labor party to start a revolution.

"The peasants of Belgium and France were responsible for the entry in the Ruhr," he declared. "They urged the government to get something tangible after the numerous conferences and parleys had brought no result. The Germans repeated again and again that they were unable to start payment of the reparations debt, but they demonstrated at once to the whole world that they actually could pay by financing the passive resistance movement in the Ruhr, where they subsidized a population of not less than 11,000,000 to obstruct the French and Belgians in their occupation program."

TWO SLAIN, FOUR SHOT BY NEGRO KILLER

ning, C. A. Hammond, Kenneth Black, and Luther Hughes, Manning was shot at the time Sanders was killed. The others were possumen who were slain in encounters with the fugitive.

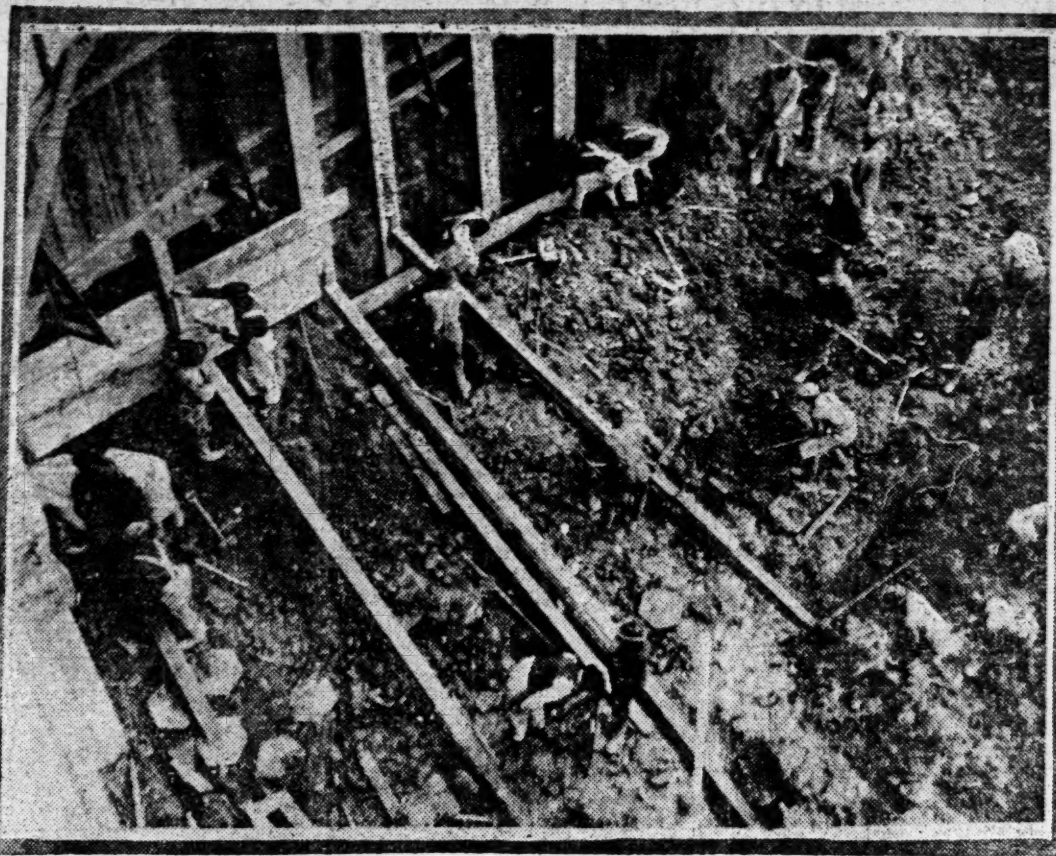

One report early tonight was that two of the wounded had died of their injuries. Pallen also is reported wounded.

According to reports from Drew the negro, after killing Sanders and wounding Manning with a pistol, went to his cabin and obtained a shot gun and a supply of ammunition. He then made for the canebrake.

Hughes, Hammond and Methew were the first of the possumen to fall before the negro's fire. The charge from the shot gun that killed Methew was fired at close range and shattered his head. At the time it is believed they were detached from the main posse. Blackmore was wounded late in the day when he was fired on by the negro from ambush.

Late reports from Drew stated that Pallen had been located late this evening hidden in a slough on a farm five miles from Drew and three miles from the scene of the first killing.

Workers Meet Death in Wall Cave-In Photograph by Mathewson & Price, Staff Photographers.

Laborers shown working to rescue negroes buried under debris.

William Wright and Ed Brown, negroes, were buried alive under a mass of stone and dirt Friday afternoon when the north wall of the Hurt building annex, which is under construction, caved in, smothering them to death before the picks and shovels of their fellow-workers uncovered their bodies. A score or more of pedestrians and other workers were imperiled, a greater portion of the sidewalk on Edgewood avenue having caved in without warning.

The spot where the two negroes met their death had a few minutes before been filled with other workers, and the fact that they were resting during the period allowed for lunch saved them.

URGES CHURCH TO AID PROTESTANTS ABROAD

Columbus, Ohio, December 14.—American churches must go to the aid of European protestantism or it will crumble, the Rev. Dr. Charles S. MacFarland, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, declared in an address today before the executive committee of that organization.

"Every dispatch," he said, "tells of growing famine and of the closing through poverty of evangelical institutions of benevolence and education. Only united efforts by American churches, can keep the whole fabric of European protestantism from crumbling."

"It is the protestant element which is suffering most acutely. Comparing as it does, the middle class, it is in greatest danger of extinction in the great wave of economic disaster which has engulfed central Europe."

The executive committee of the federal council of churches today refused to take action on the request of the Chicago federation of churches that a committee be appointed to attend the all-Russian meeting at Moscow next May. The request which would have provided for cooperation with the "Red" church was turned over to the administrative committee with instructions to consider it and take any action necessary.

The committee adopted a resolution of thanks to President Coolidge for the recommendation in his message to congress that the United States enter the world court and approved a proposal that a definite date be set for celebration of Easter instead of following the present calendar system of determining the date.

Coverdale Gets Back Lost Place In Farm Bureau

Chicago, December 14.—John W. Coverdale, ousted by an outgoing executive committee as secretary-treasurer of the American Farm Bureau federation, was reinstated late Friday by the new committee. He was also made director of organization.

This action ends the federation's factional row with a complete victory for the administration.

Walton Petet, Texas cooperative marketing expert, who was one of the leaders of the secession, severed his connections with the federation. His resignation, made on the convention floor, requires no further action.

The new committee deferred action until January on the national wheat advisory committee, which was referred to it by the convention after the delegates voted against indorsement. This committee, organized largely by Petet and Aaron Sapir, aims at organization of all wheat farmers for cooperative marketing, and is headed by Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois.

Action of the mid-west farm bureau in indorsing cooperative wheat marketing was approved, however, and the committee went on record as willing to aid in cooperative organization wherever such is desired by the producers.

High Price Is Paid For Orpington Hen That Stole Jewel

Boston, December 14.—Lady Camille, a prize blue Orpington hen that was arrested last week charged with theft after she had snatched a diamond from a ring worn by a visitor at the Chelsea poultry show, has been purchased by Lawrence A. Randall, a Boston poultry man. He paid $250 to the owner of the diamond, in addition to the ruling market price for the hen.

Lady Camille was released when a judge found that the criminal code did not extend to fowls. Then the owner of the diamond insisted on an operation and paid the owner of the hen $100 as damages in the event of Lady Camille's death from the operation. Later Randall came forward with his offer, which both owners accepted.

BAPTISTS SCORE LAW VIOLATORS

gations. Request also was made that the message be given to all county papers for publication.

The prohibition laws are violated with impunity in both high places and low, the resolution declares. It was stated that this disregard of one statute would lead to a general contempt for law and constituted authority.

The resolution follows: "Whereas, the amount of crime and lawlessness in our state and nation is appalling and distressing; our prohibition laws are being flagrantly violated in high places and in low places; and this violation is too often winked at by both citizens and officials. And there is also a disposition on the part of large numbers of our people to take the law into their own hands in utter disregard of the constituted orderly processes of law. Neither life, nor liberty nor property is safe; and:

Whereas, law and the observance of law is necessary to the happiness of all the people, and the nation that gives itself over to lawlessness is on the sure and rapid road to destruction and death;

Now, therefore, be it resolved: That the Georgia Baptist convention, representing more than 200,000 loyal citizens of the state, declares itself unqualifiedly in favor of law enforcement. And this enforcement should apply alike and in the same sense to the prohibition law and to all other laws on our statute books. Disregard of one law leads to disregard of all laws.

And it is alike dangerous to society for countless individuals to decide that they can better regulate the affairs of the community than the constituted legal authorities. The history of the world has clearly shown that such a course leads to the liberties and securities of the people.

This convention hereby calls upon all of our officials to faithfully and fearlessly perform their duties as officers, and upon all of our people to stand unitedly and completely for law enforcement and to give all law enforcement officials their fullest support and to let them understand that nothing less than thoroughgoing law enforcement will be satisfactory to us.

TWO PRESS BODIES MERGED AT MEET

Athens, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The eighth and ninth district press associations were combined into the eighth and ninth press association at the meeting held here Friday.

E. A. Caldwell, editor of the Walton News, was named president to succeed Ernest Camp of the eighth district and J. E. Shannon of the ninth. Mr. Shannon was named vice president.

R. W. Carroll was elected secretary and treasurer and James P. Davison, of Cleveland, was named assistant secretary and treasurer.

The next meeting will be held in Athens the second Friday in March. The executive committee is composed of Louis Morris of Hartwell; W. T. Bacon, Madison; Rush Burton, Lavonia; J. W. McWhorter, Winder; C. M. Morecock, Lawrenceville; and P. D. Singleton, Clarksville.

The meeting Friday was small in attendance on account of the weather, but interest was very pronounced.

Speakers Kept Away.
Rush Burton, editor of the Lavonia Times, who was to have delivered an address before the meeting was prevented from attending on account of the conditions of the roads between here and Lavonia. His message on "How the Weekly Press Can Best Serve the Farmers the First Three Months of 1934," was read, however.

W. T. Anderson, editor of the Macon Telegraph, who was to speak on the "Press and Good Roads," wired his regrets. He was a have driven through but was prevented on account of the rains.

Editor Shannon of the Commerce News, spoke on "The Value of the Editorial Page," and his speech was one of the best ever heard by the association. He referred to the value the editorial could be in discussing such vital subjects as good roads, agriculture and lawlessness. In referring to lawlessness in the state, he said he deplored the seeming lethargy that law enforcement had fallen into in Georgia and he called upon the editors to take a stand for justice through the regular legal channels.

Says Courts Are Lax.
He said the courts had become too lax in disposing of cases and that it had come to pass when a man could go into court and by hook and crook have his case postponed from time to time until it has become disgusting. He said that no authority other than the courts, however, should assume the responsibility of meting out so-called justice.

E. A. Williams, negro demonstration agent of the state, spoke on the negro emigration subject and called upon the editors to support a program that would divorce the members of his race from cotton and bring them back to the farms, under livable conditions.

Laying Cornerstone For Henry W. Grady School Is Postponed

Henry W. Grady High School for Boys will be dedicated formally at cornerstone exercises during January, it was announced Friday by Mrs. Julia O'Keefe Nelson, chairman of the school board committee in charge. Exercises originally arranged for Friday afternoon will be carried out then. Postponement was forced by the muddy condition of the grounds as a result of rain.

NOTHING TO FEAR.—Thou man of man, be not afraid.—Ezekiel 2:6.

CAMOUFLAGING.

When it was forecast some weeks ago that the executives of the southeastern railroads, after 18 months of campaigning for home-seekers' rates into the south Atlantic states, would grant the same upon party-ticket basis during summer months only, The Constitution vigorously protested that such a "concession" would be more reactionary than progressive, and would really defeat the very purposes for which home-seekers' rates are supposed to be offered.

The announcement is now officially made that the executives, in defiance of all protests, have granted the rates upon the conditions as forecast then—that is, on the following basis:

1. Tickets to be placed on sale on the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the period April to September inclusive, next.
2. Rate of fare to be one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00.
3. Rates to be authorized from the Potomac, Ohio and Mississippi river gateways, Memphis and north.
4. Destinations in the southeastern states to be selected by the carriers.
5. Tickets to be for parties of five or more traveling on one ticket.
6. Limit of tickets to be 21 days from date of sale.
7. Stop-overs on either going or return trip, or both, at stations within the state in which destination of ticket is located.

These conditions, when analyzed, are a reflection upon the railroads that would so promote summer excursions, at greater than normal excursion rates, under the pretense of abetting southeastern agricultural development, and under the misnomer of special home-seekers' rates. The Manufacturers' Record aptly terms the new rates as "Dead Sea Apples."

The summer season is necessarily the dull season in passenger travel, and especially into the southern states. It is the season when railroad passenger agents enliven the situation only by offering summer excursion rates to cities and to mountains and seashore, these return rates being usually far less than the standard normal fare one way.

That it is the purpose to make these so-called home-seekers' rates nothing more nor less than summer excursions is evidenced first by the outside dates, April to September, inclusive, which begins just after the winter tourist season has closed and ends just before it has begun; and second, by the provision that tickets are to be for parties of five or more traveling on one ticket.

The latter provision means that a bona fide home-seeker at any railroad station in the radius of the originating territory must find at least four others to make the same trip, together with some uncertain destinations and stop-overs and return date, before he can get the benefit of the rate.

Any bona fide home-seeker at another, and all other stations, must do the same thing.

That is to say they must at their own expense organize, individually, various and sundry excursion parties in order to investigate home advantages in Georgia or Florida, or any point in the south, and must pay the railroads more than the normal excursion rates besides the labor of drumming up the excursion.

The proposal is ridiculous. The "concession" does not reflect any credit upon the railroads. On the other hand it bears the earmarks of a deliberate attempt to defeat the purpose, so essential to southern agricultural development, to bring into the south men who are seriously contemplating moving into the south and to become freeholders and wealth-builders in the south.

Home-seekers' rates into the far west are not on this basis. Not only do they run at given dates of movement each month for the entire year, but the railroads feeding that country spend hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in portraying and advertising the farm and fruit growing, climatic, living, educational and other advantages of the sections they seek to build, and from the building of which they prosper.

It is a short-sighted policy to deliberately hold the southeast back in any such manner as this, and particularly under the subterfuge of having granted what has been sought.

It is a paradoxical situation. It is like a parent giving permission to the child to go in swimming but forbidding it to go near the water. It is a purely contradictory action.

Home-seekers' rates should extend over the year, eligible at least two dates in each month for movement from point of origin; should be sold to individuals, and the letter should have the right of naming the destination within the territory covered in the rate radius.

Anything short of that is simply trifling with a great economic necessity in this reconstruction hour for utilizing to best advantage the land acres of the southeast and in shifting and readjusting populations and energies in the interest of a better national life.

THE CHAIRMAN'S ADVICE

The democratic state executive committee will meet in January to fix the date and prescribe the rules for a presidential preferential primary.

As the national convention will meet on or about July 1, it is necessary that a primary to express Georgia's choice for a nominee for president shall be held not later than some date early in May.

The usual rule is to hold the primary fully 60 days before a convention.

The law requires that the regular state primary shall be held 60 days before a general election which fixes early September for that date.

In 1920 the presidential primary was held on April 20.

At any rate it is practically assured that Georgia will make primary presidential expression late in April or early in May.

Chairman G. E. Maddox, of the state democratic executive committee, in a letter to members of the committee suggests that members of the state executive committee urge county executive committees to refrain from calling their respective primaries for county offices or fixing any date for the same until after the state committee calls for the presidential primary.

These county primaries are usually held in the spring, and there is no good reason why the county primary and the presidential primary should not be held conjointly, or made one and the same primary. It would assure a fuller and thus more representative vote. Most of all it would eliminate one primary, thus eliminate the loss of productive time at a season of the year that is most compelling upon the farmer.

The fact is unless there is a consolidation of the presidential and county primaries it is a question as to just how the former is to be fully financed in all the counties. The prospects are half the ballot boxes would not be opened, and that in many cases where opened they would have to be manned by volunteer election officials. The latter is quite unsatisfactory.

It is understood that one or two counties in Georgia have already called county primaries for January. Such a course is infinitely unfair to the electors, and even to candidates.

The election is in November, and any county primary held by direction ten or eleven months in advance of the election is simply snap judgment that destroys the integrity of the primary system, and strikes at the vitals of this great fundamental of popular government.

The county committees should act upon the advice of Chairman Maddox, and take no action until the state committee calls the preferential primary, and then fix the county primary date the same. It will be in the interest of economy of time and money, and assure a keener interest and consequently a more representative election.

In Their Own Little World.

In his always interesting column, "Remnants," in The Albany Herald, Editor McIntosh says of "The Children"—

"Little folks are the best company on this earth. They live in a small world of their own, and their precious human privileges when they grow out of the ability to 'think as a child'—to let the imagination soar on baby wings into the realm of those whose jeweled gates very little folks alone can enter. What would not a grown man give to be able to be as real a soldier of fortune as a four-year-old boy with a toy gun on his shoulder, a feather in his hat and a kick-horse on which to charge a battery of empty cocoa-cola bottles? Or what woman would not be thankful if she could see in a bedraggled rag doll a leaping missile of three summers' age?"

The Gold of It.

Here is one of the new-style poems, by Louis Ginsberg, in the "Bowling Green" department of The New York Evening Post. It is entitled "Alchemy"—

"If flowers wrench their colors up
From any sudden clay,
If you wake to the crimson hues
From ground, however gray,

"If slender daffodils can drain
From darkest dirt their sheen,
If roses wring their reddest dyes,
And trees suck green,

"My thoughts can also sink their roots
Into the rocky mould,
And from the dingy loam of life Share bright gold."

The Case in a Nutshell.
The St. Louis correspondent of The Benton Courier doesn't overlook any possible benefits. He says—

"This is Sunday, and it is raining;
And we reckon it will turn cold,
And we will need a lot of clothes we ain't got."

Survival of the Pig.

The Lancaster Excelsior tells this one—

"A farmer purchased a stick of dynamite for the purpose of blowing a stump. He laid the dynamite by the barn and went inside to put his pipe away. A pig found the stick of dynamite, swallowed it, and walked into a stall where a span of mules were tied. One of the mules kicked the pig and the pig set off the dynamite. The explosion blinded the farmer, killed one mule, tore the harness off the other, and blew the pig into the air and almost killed the pig."

Today's Talk

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COURTESY.

Being interested in daily newspapers—and making it living from them—I am all the time studying them, buying up dozens of them from day to day.

In my town are several stands where out-of-town papers are sold. I have bought from them all. But there is one I like to buy from most of all. It is the one farthest from my office, so it always takes more time, but I go to it and come away with my armful.

Why? Because the chap there always has a pleasant smile on his face. We talk about different folks from all parts of the country who come to buy, and he is just as pleasant to the old farmer as he is to the most fashionable gown-woman—and just as courteous to the one who buys one paper as to the one who buys a dozen.

Almost next to capital is this thing, courtesy!

Show me the store where people like to go to time and time again and I will point out a store where courtesy is the rule and not the exception.

When folks leave a store and tell their friends about the fine treatment they got from those who waited upon them, that store gets a better advertisement than full pages in a daily newspaper.

You who run a store can't succeed without courtesy to your clients. And you who work in a store can't grow or be bigger unless you have learned this powerful art of courtesy.

Money spent for flowers is never wasted, whether they are to beautify a room or a yard. The very air about is made purer and life is better with them around.

Courtesy creates a condition like that which flowers create. It makes everything so much more worthwhile.

A TENDERFOOT IN MEXICO

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

Mexico City, December 14.—The night life of Mexico City is of the sort variety. The wellbred Mexican rarely goes to public caes. The many American jazz bands here are playing to rows of empty tables. After 10 o'clock the streets of Mexico City are as deserted as those of London.

Mexico City forbids tourists to picture her poverty. The police will stop the snap-shooting of beggars and ragged peons and nearly every photo taken is opened by police inspectors before it crosses the border.

It is not all squalor here. There are stately domes, battered walls, curious convents and monasteries, volcanoes with eternal snows, pale faced Indians gliding by in canoes, Aztec pottery, flower markets and tiled fountains. Indeed there are more of a world in crises of loveless Mexico's wonderful old civilization is unchanged by men and politics. At the Xochimilco floating market a basket of fruit and a pair of gardenias for a few pennies. A canoe load of gardenias was offered for 15 cents.

The traffic policemen dress in white uniforms and smoke cigarettes on duty. They turn a sign reading

"Alto," to stop, and "Adelante," to move. Our chauffeur violated a traffic ordinance in a congested district. The officer hopped on the running board and directed us to move up a side street. He and the chauffeur had an animated discussion. It wound up by the policeman shaking hands with him. Indeed they grew so affectionate I thought they were going to embrace. I think the driver slipped him a coin.

Knowing my fondness for dogs, a friend sent a street entertainer round to my hotel with his pack and they performed their tricks on the sidewalk while I looked on from a balcony window. The trainer was a ragged little urchin. All his dogs were in costume. They turned somersaults, walked on front and hind legs and zipped over the city at their work. Mexico City streets are filled with dogs that rove about unleashed and unmuzzled.

We dined tonight in a typical Mexican cafe where only Mexican dishes are served. Our companion was a young Yaqui Indian boy. He is now an expert photographer for an American film concern and speaks perfect English. Tomorrow afternoon he is to go to the bull fight. I am in hopes they will call it off. THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

King George Is Safe.

It begins to look as if His Majesty's government will be formed by a party in which there is a considerable number of king-breakers. The labor party is becoming stronger in the House of Commons, and the nation of the conservative government headed by Mr. Baldwin. The laborites are going to tackle the unemployment problem. It will be an interesting experiment. All the other parties have failed to solve it permanently. But the king is safe in his job. The British are loath to break with traditions and moreover as far as actual power is concerned the president of the United States has more of that than King George.

Salvation Army Leader On Consecrated Ground.

Commander Evangeline Booth, daughter of the founder of the Salvation Army, has been to Rome and has visited the Coliseum and the catacombs where the early Christians were persecuted. She was paid for her belief with a martyr's death. It is not long ago that the Salvation Army went through some persecution in the United States.

Booth was often hounded from the streets of Whitechapel and the slum of the east end of London, but at his death statesman and monarch paid tribute to his life work and named him one of the greatest of the modern age.

From the Indian tribes, who still sacrifice infants to heathen gods, the salms of Berlin, Vienna and London, the name of the army has become a byword for self-sacrifice and heroic Christian effort. Miss Evangeline Booth in Rome stood on the spot where the spiritual ancestors once sealed the gospel's victory with their blood.

George Never Knew a Real City Editor Until Now.

Never before has George Bernard Shaw submitted to having one of his plays cut. But he has done so now at the request of the New York Theater Guild. The guild called Mr. Shaw the other day to the steps of Miss the climax in his play, "Joan of Arc," in their rush for their trains. Change the railroad schedules, called the editor of the "Railroad" obituary. We throw ourselves on your mercy," the guild replied.

The editor's answer: "Sending revised manuscript."

(From The Manufacturers' Record.)
As stated by us last week, the proposed home-seekers' rates as suggested by the Southeastern Passenger association are worse than the Dead Sea apples which turn to ashes; they are a delusion and a snare; they are wholly unworthy of the railroad officials of the south; they are creditable; they propose to give something when practically they give nothing. In virtually ignoring the efforts of those who are seeking to bring about the right kind of home-seekers' rates, these railroad officials are sowing seed for public hostility which will inevitably grow upon railroads and do them great harm.

It would seem that the experiences of the last fifteen or twenty years would have taught all railroad officials the supreme importance of the profitable operation of public sentiment, but occasionally some of these officials seem still to be unable to understand that fact and therefore fly directly in the face of public sentiment or take action which inevitably creates hostility to all railroads.

Mr. Richard H. W. Price, president of the Southeastern Passenger association, has stated the case none too strongly in his letter to Mr. Howard, from which we have taken a few extracts.

Gospel Penetrates African Jungle.

King Kwaka Dwa III, of Ashanti in Africa's darkest wilderness has become a Christian and as first token of his new faith has renounced all but one of his 3,000 wives.

He said that human sacrifices ran into the tens of thousands during the latter part of his reign. On the outskirts of Cocacaste, the jungle capital, stood the "crucifixion grove," to whose giant trees the victims were nailed to die in lingering agony, while the walls of the royal palace were built from piles of skulls.

The British government told the king to take the palace because the odor of decaying flesh purified the neighborhood. The king then went to the chapel and told him he wanted to become a Christian, but when he told that his harem was an objection, the king replied: "One wife not much for great king; but still me want 'ligion.'"

"Vive le Roi!"

The mystery of the dauphin of France has deepened—one degree—by the announcement that the late king's fourth son has made his appearance since the French revolution. The people of Paris rubbed their eyes when they saw, upon emerging in the streets, they saw the houses placarded with the notice that a legitimate descendant of the House of Capet had been found and that he would make a try for the throne. It is perhaps something of a tribute to Bourbon persistence that the royalist question has survived for so many years. The new claimant comes from Holland, where his father is a major in the Dutch army and the distinguished name of Henri Louis Victor Francois Charles de Bourbon.

Bells Will Ring In Oudenarde.

The people of Oudenarde, a little town in Belgium, have found back the chiming of their church. They were discovered in Upper Silesia, mining merely from the steps of some fine new Lutheran church. It is a wonder that they were not recast into cannons by the Germans. The carillon of Oudenarde is one of the finest in the low countries. In the olden days when a city bought a carillon, the bells were consecrated and the great men of the town stood sponsors at the festive occasions. Every progressive city in the Netherlands has a carillon, and the town of Oudenarde, their care, their proper playing, their enlargement were constantly under discussion. Even the carillon was employed in settling questions in relation to them. Towns were rivals for preeminence in carillon, and the best masters and makers were esteemed citizens. The bells of Oudenarde are coming back. It will be a great day in that old town when they ring and restore the strains of the "Brabanconne."

PARALLEL COURSE OF TWIN BROTHERS READS LIKE NOVEL

Rochester, N. Y., December 14.—A case of twin brothers who have gone through preparatory school "neck-and-neck" in scholastic and extracurricular activities, entered college together, participated in the same college activities, pursued the same courses, made grades exactly identical and were employed in the same scholarship has been brought to light at the University of Rochester.

President Rush Rhees has announced that the Rosenberger prize for the man in each junior class whose work has shown the greatest improvement during the freshman and sophomore years had been given jointly to Edwin W. and Frederick L. Connolly, twin brothers of New York city, because of the inability of the faculty committee to find a fraction of per cent difference in the scholarly standing of the brothers.

Both boys also won their letters in football in their freshman year.

Mail 'Em Early

HEALTH TALKS BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

BETTER TAKE THE AIR.

A letter came in here the other day from a lady who lately had toted considerably more heat than is really safe or even comfortable. I dare not print it because, as it is, some folks suspect that I have enough imagination to write fiction. But this lady gives her solemn word for it that she has accomplished something which I have generally considered impossible, to wit, a very substantial reduction of slacker flesh by exercise alone, without any change of her dietary habits.

She declares that she is the envy of all her friends who are as she formerly was, and that she—oh, of course, they always feel new. Her regimen which has brought about the phenomenal reduction is something like this:

First thing in the morning she rolls out of bed and does some 30 somersaults before dressing. I have always insisted that somersaults are not exercise, but this lady asserts that 30 rolls before breakfast are exercise. She then goes to breakfast and discards a bit of fruit, two or three slices of toast and uses two cups of coffee made after the Brady formula. After breakfast she does her usual household work, which she seems to think is some more exercise, though I suspect to her mind it is not. Her routine "work" finished, she grabs her hat and starts out for her morning hike, covering anywhere from three to eight miles, pedometered, before she gets back home.

If she covers six or more miles in the afternoon, that is sufficient to comply with her day's stint. She then has the rest of the day for her usual work and play. Nothing more to do but to eat and to bed. Her routine does her Greek slave costume and renders the complete Brady symphony. This she does because it exhilarates her and helps to reduce weight. But I still maintain that even though such a regimen be faithfully followed every day, it will not materially reduce weight unless the diet is suitably restricted at the same time. Excessive flesh accumulates in the first place because one eats enough to maintain two athletes, say, and takes in a small fraction of the daily exercise one athlete takes. I fancy that if we could have accurate data on the matter, we would find that a man who takes in a small fraction of the daily exercise one athlete takes, and who eats enough to maintain two athletes, will gain weight. For those who can't afford it, a rendition of the Brady symphony is approximately equivalent to a two-mile walk.

Only Seven Shopping Days Before Christmas

This Is Going to Be Another Jewelry Christmas

Since the first Christmas gifts were Gold and Frankincense and Myrrh, it has been the established custom to give precious metals and precious stones to those we love at Christmas time.

It is a singular thing that the gifts which were prized and valued two thousand years ago are today looked upon as the Gifts That Last. Certainly their value lasts through the ages, and the history and tradition back of the jewels and gold and silver enrich them to modern people.

Jewelry and silverware will always be appreciated, valued at their true value, and are acceptable at all times.

This is going to be a jewelry Christmas. Give your loved ones Gifts That Last.

NO TRACE FOUND OF LOST AVIATOR

London, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Up to late tonight no trace had been found of Lawrence B. Sperry, the American aviator, whose small airplane was found in the English channel yesterday three miles off Rye.

P. H. Jackson, London manager of the Sperry company, returned tonight from Rye, where he had gone when word reached him that the aviator was missing, reporting that an all-day search had failed to find the body and that the searching parties had abandoned their attempts. The plane, which has been towed into Rye, is believed by Mr. Jackson to be in a flyable condition.

Church Council Urges U.S. to Join Nations League

Columbus, Ohio, December 14.—The executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches today urged that the United States either enter the league of nations or propose "some more effective substitute."

The recommendation was made in a "declaration of ideals and principles" adopted by the committee at its annual meeting after a day of discussion of international affairs. Originally the declaration had urged only that the United States "should establish world justice," but the league of nations was given specific mention in an amendment submitted by Rev. Dr. William Adams Brown, of the Union Theological Seminary, New York. The amendment was accepted without dissent.

Urges Counties Combine Dates For Elections

Rome, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Chairman G. E. Maddox, of the democratic state committee, is deeply concerned over reports reaching him that one or two county executive committees have called snap primaries for county offices to be held in January, ten months before the next general election. He has just addressed the following letter to every member of the state executive committee regarding the presidential and other primaries in 1924, and earnestly suggests that the naming of all county primary dates be deferred until after the state committee has fixed the date for the presidential primary. By this method it will be wise probably to hold the presidential and county primaries together, thus saving considerable time and expense.

To the Members of the State Democratic Executive Committee:
We are, during the coming year, the national, state and local elections are to be held. Under the law the primary for the selection of the candidates for United States senator, governor and other state officers, and for the nomination of delegates to the national convention, is to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in June, 1924. This primary must necessarily be deferred, therefore, until after the middle of September.

The national convention will be held about July 1. This will necessitate the presidential primary and no nomination in January. The committee will find itself very seriously embarrassed thereby, unless we can secure the nomination of the presidential primary to be held on the same day which we may fix for the presidential primary.

The expense of holding a primary in the 100 counties in the state will necessarily be very heavy, and the state committee will have no funds to pay these expenses. If a primary should be called and the various county committees had no funds with which to pay the managers and clerks, it would be necessary to rely on my own opinion is that the polls would not be opened in a majority of the counties. In this way the democratic party would, in the very nature of things, be the greatest loser. Under such conditions a presidential primary would be a mere waste of money to everybody, and would in no wise be an expression of the general wishes of the voters of the state.

It is customary in a large majority of the counties to hold primaries for the selection of nominees for county officers in the spring or early summer preceding the election. It is my intention to call a meeting of the state committee in January, and to request the county committees to call their county primaries on the same day as the state primary.

FIGHT BREWING ONG. O. P. QUOTAS

Washington, December 14.—Indications are becoming clearer that the republican national convention may be the scene of a sharp fight over the national committee's action in restoring the delegate strength of southern states in its unexpected revision this week of reapportionment figures.

This trend, first developed during the committee's discussion of the question, became more marked today with publication of statements by Senator Johnson, of California, a candidate for the presidential nomination, and Chairman John T. Adams, which the committee, attacking and defending the action.

Senator Johnson, in his statement, characterizes the revision as an act by which "the republican states are penalized" and the "southern states, where there is no republicanism, are rewarded." "The resolution of the national convention has been disregarded," he declared; "the will of the republicans of the party flouted."

Chairman Adams, on the other hand, says the revision adds only nine delegates to the 1920 apportionment of the southern states as compared with 1910. Adams, who is a member of the committee's action was a measure of justice to congressional districts in the south.

Tempting Bribes Offered Guards Along Frontier

Malone, N. Y., December 14.—Balked by the knowledge that federal and state prohibition agents have been reinforced along the northeastern frontier Canadian bootleggers, anxious to fulfill contracts to deliver Christmas liquor and beer to the big cities down state, have boldly resorted to attempted bribery of enforcement officers.

It became known today, on unquestioned authority, that virtually every member of the state troopers along the northern patrol have been approached with tempting offers of money by bootleggers, or their agents. Steps have been taken to keep a special watch for the men who made the offers.

Federal and state authorities felt today that they had made considerable progress in combating the flow of liquor across the border. They are cognizant of the fact that the smugglers have large stocks of liquor ready for shipment and are only waiting a favorable opportunity to make a dash.

The agents already have advance knowledge as to who is to make some of the trips and have laid plans accordingly.

Officers Search For Masked Blacks Who Slew Merchant

Little Rock, Ark., December 14.—County officers continued their search today for two negroes who murdered and robbed Andrew J. Jones, 50-year-old storekeeper at Wrightsville, a village 12 miles south of this city, last night. Sheriff Homer Adkins said he led a posse of seven deputies to the scene, reported early today that he had no clue to the whereabouts of the men.

The story of the robbery and murder was told by the 10-year-old son of Jones, who was in the store with his father when the negroes entered and commanded the storekeeper to put up his hands. As his father, who was sitting in a chair by the stove, complied with the command, the lad said, the negroes fired twice. One bullet struck Jones in the neck.

The bandits grabbed the cash drawer with its contents and fled. Though mortally wounded, Jones seized a shotgun and fired upon his assailants as they left the store, but his aim was poor and the men escaped. Jones then collapsed and died 15 minutes later.

The lad told the officers that both bandits wore masks and that one was robed with white wrapping paper. The paper "robe" together with a few pennies, believed to have been dropped from the cash drawer, was found near the scene. Bloodhounds were taken to the scene early today.

WRIGHT GETS MORE DAMAGES IN APPEAL

Providence, R. I., December 14.—A verdict for $63,450.58 in favor of Richard Wright, of Durham, N. C., manufacturer of bread wrapping machines, against the Taft-Pierce Manufacturing company, of Woonsocket, was returned by a federal court jury here this afternoon. The Taft-Pierce company was allowed three weeks in which to file a motion for a new trial. About a year ago Mr. Wright obtained a verdict for $23,001, but the defendant company obtained a new trial. He sought $100,000 damages, alleging breach of contract in the manufacture by the defendant of bread wrapping machines.

German Dye Trust Seeks To Crush U. S. Competitors

New York, December 14.—German dye trust officials again are attempting to monopolize the world's markets and are seeking to wreck the industry in the United States, the Synthetic Organic Chemical Manufacturers' association was told today by Francis P. Garvan, president of the Chemical Foundation.

"Although one attempt has been repulsed," he told delegates to the annual convention, "the Germans are preparing to attempt to establish a new German manufacturing industry in this country. But we are getting ready for that."

"The plan just repulsed was a projected effort to divide the trust in Germany into many small concerns, each German company seeking an alliance with one of our larger companies, with the aim of destroying that company and ultimately all the smaller American concerns."

The United States now is independent in the dye field, Daniel F. Walters, president of the Masters Dyers' association, said.

EMPLOYMENT SERVICE IN ATLANTA PRAISED

The junior division of the United States employment service, of Atlanta, has made more progress in employment work than any other organization of its kind in the United States, according to the Personnel Association of Atlanta, which is the largest of the Atlanta division of the United States employment service, department of labor, said Friday night in an address before the Personnel Association of Atlanta to the City Club. Mr. Jones complimented Cator Woolford, president of the association, and other officers for their progress in employment work.

Talks on different phases of employment work, including sources for securing employees, interviews and placement, were made by Charles T. Hoke, of the Blosser company; Miss Louise Griffin, of the employment division of the Retail Credit company; M. G. Clapp, of Foote & Davies; and J. T. Rose, collector of internal revenue.

Mr. Jones stressed the need of a state employment system and cited the good results of this plan in Texas, where, he said, the department of labor is cooperating with the state in employment work.

Plan To Create Job for Beavers To Cause Battle

Proposal by the police committee to create a new position of captain of the accident prevention bureau of traffic bureau of the police department at a salary of $200 a month, with the avowed purpose of assigning James L. Beavers to the post, will be the center Monday of one of the bitterest fights that has ever developed on the floor of council, it became apparent Friday afternoon, after the salary committee of council refused to recommend the change, requested by all members of the police committee.

Councilman J. A. Beall, member of the police committee, would Councilman J. L. Wells, member of both committees, urged the salary committee to recommend the new captaincy.

Alderman Ragdale, Councilman Couch and Councilman Vaughan opposed the plan, declaring themselves against creating any new positions or special salaries for the department.

Councilman Beall stated that Beavers had agreed to accept the assignment and drop his fight to retain the position as chief of police. He said that the friendly settlement of the long war to oust Beavers as chief had the approval of the entire police committee and of other members of council.

Councilmen Fred C. Woodall and Garland Cooper also attended the meeting to urge approval for the plan. Alderman Jesse Armstrong, chairman of the committee, gave out a statement during the afternoon approving it.

Judge E. D. Thomas stated during the afternoon that he would support his decision Saturday on Beavers' petition to enjoin the police committee from suspending him or trying him on charges of inefficiency. Beavers was suspended by the committee Wednesday night, and ordered to face trial Tuesday night, in defiance, E. L. Jett, former night chief, is acting as chief.

Bishop Robert Jones Makes Chief Address At Negro Conference

The Atlanta annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, colored group, which has been holding its sessions in the Central avenue church, convened Friday at Clark university.

After the regular conference business had been transacted the faculty and students assembled in the chapel at noon with the ministers and lay delegates for the regular chapel exercises. The school chorus rendered special music for the hour. The audience that crowded the chapel was addressed by Bishop Robert E. Jones, of New Orleans, who, at the request of Resident Bishop E. G. Richardson, also presided at the conference.

For the night service the conference returned to Central church and listened with attention to addresses delivered by Dr. J. W. Simmons, president of Clark university, and Dr. L. H. King, editor of The Southwestern Christian Advocate. Special music was rendered by Standard Life female quartet.

The following introductions were made to the conference. Preceptor by H. Trever, of Gaunton Theological seminary, and Drs. E. J. Hammond, J. B. Crippen and Rev. R. H. Robb, of the Georgia M. E. conference.

1924 CONVENTION OF TRAFFIC CLUBS ASSURED ATLANTA

The 1924 national convention of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America was virtually assured the delegation from Atlanta attending the 1923 session at the closing session in Cleveland, Friday night.

This information was contained in a telegram to The Constitution from T. B. Curtis, secretary of the Atlanta Traffic club, a prominent member of the local delegation.

The Associated Traffic Clubs of America are composed of leading business men associated with all lines of shipping and transportation, and the Atlanta club is a particularly prominent and active organization.

We let the Cleveland convention know where "Five Points" is located," was the declaration of Secretary Curtis in his telegram to The Constitution.

VERNER SLUGGED OVER TESTIMONY

served with food. He said he "hold them" his place was closed for the night. Whereupon, one of the men, described as heaviest and about 33 years of age, engaged him in conversation relative to a visit Fox is said by prosecuting attorneys in the murder trial to have made to the lodge.

The conversation waxed warm when Verner denied any knowledge of such a visit from the defendant, and reached its climax when the visitor drew a revolver and said he would shoot Mr. Verner.

The male companion of the visitor snatched the revolver before a shot was fired, according to Verner. At this point of the proceedings, Verner's son, A. M. Jr., a student at Oglethorpe university, struck the man several blows in the face with his fist.

The two men clinched, young Verner succeeding in stunning the man with blows. Separated from his revolver and apparently mangled in muscular strength, the visitor seized a chair and struck at Mr. Verner, Sr., with full force, knocking him against a table and off into two scarp wounds.

The other male visitor succeeded in dragging his companion from the room after the man had scribbled "Fox" in the blank space of a court subpoena and thrust it into Verner's hand.

Service of the subpoena was accompanied by the scuffling that he knew, better appear and tell what he knew, the elder Mr. Verner said.

Man Was Drunk.

The intoxicated man was apparently intoxicated, Mr. Verner reported to County Policemen Webb and Casey, who investigated the affair.

During the scene, the woman, an old woman, the proceedings with a calm demeanor. Mrs. Verner and Miss Lodi Verner, daughter of the proprietor, were overcome with fear, they said, and stood motionless in the room while the male members of the family sought to protect the home from the intruders.

Woman Comes to City.

Fifteen minutes after the visitors are reported to have left the lodge, a woman, the companion of the men, entered a pharmacy at Buckhead, and after calling several telephone numbers, asked C. P. McCarty, a taxi driver, to bring her to the city. McCarty stated that he drove her to the Hansford building, on North Forsyth street, where she entered for several minutes, later returning to his car and asking to be driven to 53 1-2 South Forsyth street.

At the latter address, the woman again left the car, returning in company with two or three men, all of whom, according to the driver, were heavily armed, one bearing a rifle as well as a revolver. One of the men paid the fare, he said, and he saw no more of the trio. McCarty's story was corroborated by his companion, Carl Foster, who accompanied the driver on the trip.

Visitors Return.

About an hour after the first visit to his place, Verner stated that a second group of intruders surrounded his house, appearing at windows with flashlights and rapping loudly for entrance, which was not granted.

The callers finally departed, members of the Verner family said, but Mrs. Verner said she saw forms lurking in the vicinity until shortly before County Policemen Webb and Casey appeared.

Mr. Verner, after the officers arrived, again declared that he had never heard of such visits, the state charges Fox made to the lodge on November 3.

of alleged mistreatment by her husband, and of a "Mr. Savage" who "double-crossed her." The letter, which was scribbled on the back of another letter, followed.

"To all my friends:
"I am doing this because I am so disappointed. Mr. Owens, my attorney, has been very nice to me and has never advised me wrong. There is but one person who causes me to do this, and he knows that in the reason. His mistreatment to me causes it all."

"Love to all,
"Georgia."
"P. S.—Mr. Savage has double-crossed me in a way he is rejoicing over it. I guess it is over my disappointments and I know he gets on well by it. May God give him prosperity over it. God bless my mother and father and sister and brother."

"Mrs. Reese refused to discuss the 'Mr. Savage' referred to in the note. She stated that the divorce suit against her husband was still pending in the Fulton courts."

SAYS FOX SLEW TO HIDE INTRIGUE

into a man's office and kills him. Kills him and then throws the pistol upon the dead body of his victim instead of the knife, which he had planned to do in order that he might claim self-defense."

"We'll Prove It."

Upon the instant, counsel for the defense rose to object, but the solicitor's words fell sharp and clear upon each other's heels.

"We know these facts to be true, and we are going to bring them out in the evidence," he declared just as Judge Howard interrupted to sustain the objection of the defense.

A moment later, Solicitor Boykin further disclosed that the state will attempt to prove that Fox plotted in cold blood to slay Coburn by shooting him in the back when he was being seated in his office.

"Did you know that Fox attempted to enter Coburn's office through a private entrance and was in contact with him in an effort to show that he was a man of thoroughly careful and business habits?" he asked.

Then, even if the evidence was by possibility considered by noon Saturday, it is not probable that opposing counsel will care to continue into the afternoon and deliver their arguments to the jury.

Meat Is Recalled.

When court convened at 1:30 o'clock Friday for the afternoon session, G. K. Mead, city editor of The Dallas Times-Herald, was recalled, and Solicitor Boykin carefully examined him.

Several specific occasions on which Fox appeared to be suffering from mental trouble were recalled by W. H. Duncan, a reporter on the staff of the same paper. One instance, he said, was when he was called on the telephone by Fox, who said he was at a hotel in Dallas.

"For God's sake save me—they are going to kill me," he quoted Fox as saying.

condition following a mental breakdown in 1921 was given Friday afternoon by Dr. E. W. Loomis, Dallas physician and formerly the Fox family physician.

Dr. Loomis, who is former city health officer of Dallas, testified that when he went on a hurried visit to Fox's sick bed he found Fox unconscious. When he regained consciousness, he was extremely nervous and did not recognize him for two or three days, the physician said. At the conclusion of his testimony, which ended at 5:30 o'clock, the court was recessed by Judge G. H. Howard until 9 o'clock Saturday morning, at which time the defense will introduce further witnesses.

Dr. Loomis followed several other Texans who took the stand in behalf of Fox, his former associate, and testified as to his general good reputation.

The afternoon session was devoid of excitement such as was witnessed out during the morning, particularly when Solicitor Boykin implied by the nature of questions in the cross-examination of defense witnesses that the state will seek to show that Fox had been on a three-day drunk when he tried to murder Coburn, which ended at 5:30 o'clock, the court was recessed by Judge G. condition following a mental breakdown in 1921 was given Friday afternoon by Dr. E. W. Loomis, Dallas physician and formerly the Fox family physician.

Dr. Loomis, who is former city health officer of Dallas, testified that when he went on a hurried visit to Fox's sick bed he found Fox unconscious. When he regained consciousness, he was extremely nervous and did not recognize him for two or three days, the physician said. At the conclusion of his testimony, which ended at 5:30 o'clock, the court was recessed by Judge G. H. FELTON M'CONNELL WILL LEAD THE TORNADO IN 1924

Gardner Chosen Alternate At Annual Dinner to Team At the Capital City Club

BY PAUL WARWICK.

The dynasty of Mack is perpetuated at Grant Field for at least one more year, and Felton McConnell, sturdy guard, replaced John McIntyre, likewise a guard and likewise sturdy, as captain of Georgia Tech's football squad. Mack, 11, who followed the first of the season, will be aided and abetted in his noble efforts to lead his teammates through a triumphant season by George Gardner, right end of the Tornado team, elected to the post of alternate captain.

This interesting disclosure came Friday night, to the gastronomic accompaniment of munched celery and crumbled crackers, while the Golden Tornado was being banqueted at the Capital City club.

Mack's selection will be a popular one, for he has the qualities which make for leadership. Gentle and personable off the football field, Felton is a glutton for punishment, both on and off the field, and in his place alongside the pivot man on Grant Field or any other old football field where the Yellow Jackets seek to vent their anger on the opposition.

And the alternate, George Gardner, is another who is well-known. George's work at flank has been a feature of the season, and despite the contraction of some of his other injuries, he has done yeoman service at the rightmost hour, day of Tech's forward-fung battle line.

Always Some Pathos.

These annual banquets to the football teams are peculiar affairs. You couldn't concentrate more good nature under one roof to save your and six grilles' necks. But you can't find anything more efficiently superimposed with a thick veil of pathos than they are. For instance, last night it was the painful duty of those there to hear the faltering, durned-up remarks of those who, as John Stanton expressed it, he passed out of the picture—Captain John McIntyre, Alternate Captain Clare Frev, "Red" Fleetwood, John Stanton, Harry Carter, "Pinkie" Hunt, and others who will not return, but who didn't want to get out Friday night.

Lowry Arnold was toastmaster, and there's not a slice of toast in all America—since that's the way that toast comes these days—that wouldn't cheerfully submit to Lowry Arnold's deft mastery. He can master his toast any old day.

After the fruit cocktail and the stuffed lobster and the flagolets (that's beans I guess) and the salad and the turkey and the oyster dressing and the baked Alaska had all gone as they were intended—Mr. Arnold hauled off and introduced John McIntyre and John told us about the election of Felton and George. Then Coach Aleck arose and gave some very salient facts about the procedure of the 1923 team, which manifestly could have won at least some of its conference games if it had conceded defeat in some of the other games and had conserved its man-power. And Aleck told of his theory—that a team should be in there all the time, fighting to win.

Gold Footballs Presented.

Then Dr. Crenshaw, director of the athletic association at Tech, awarded the gold footballs to the heroes there and each of those passing spoke a few words that had the well-known choking effect on the susceptible throats of those gathered there.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of the Georgia School of Technology, spoke in high terms of the high scholarship attainments and lofty standards of character which were Tech's from the members of the football team and told the pride he had in the knowledge that Tech's athletes were reputed over all the south to be of the highest caliber and conducted on the cleanest and most elevated plane possible.

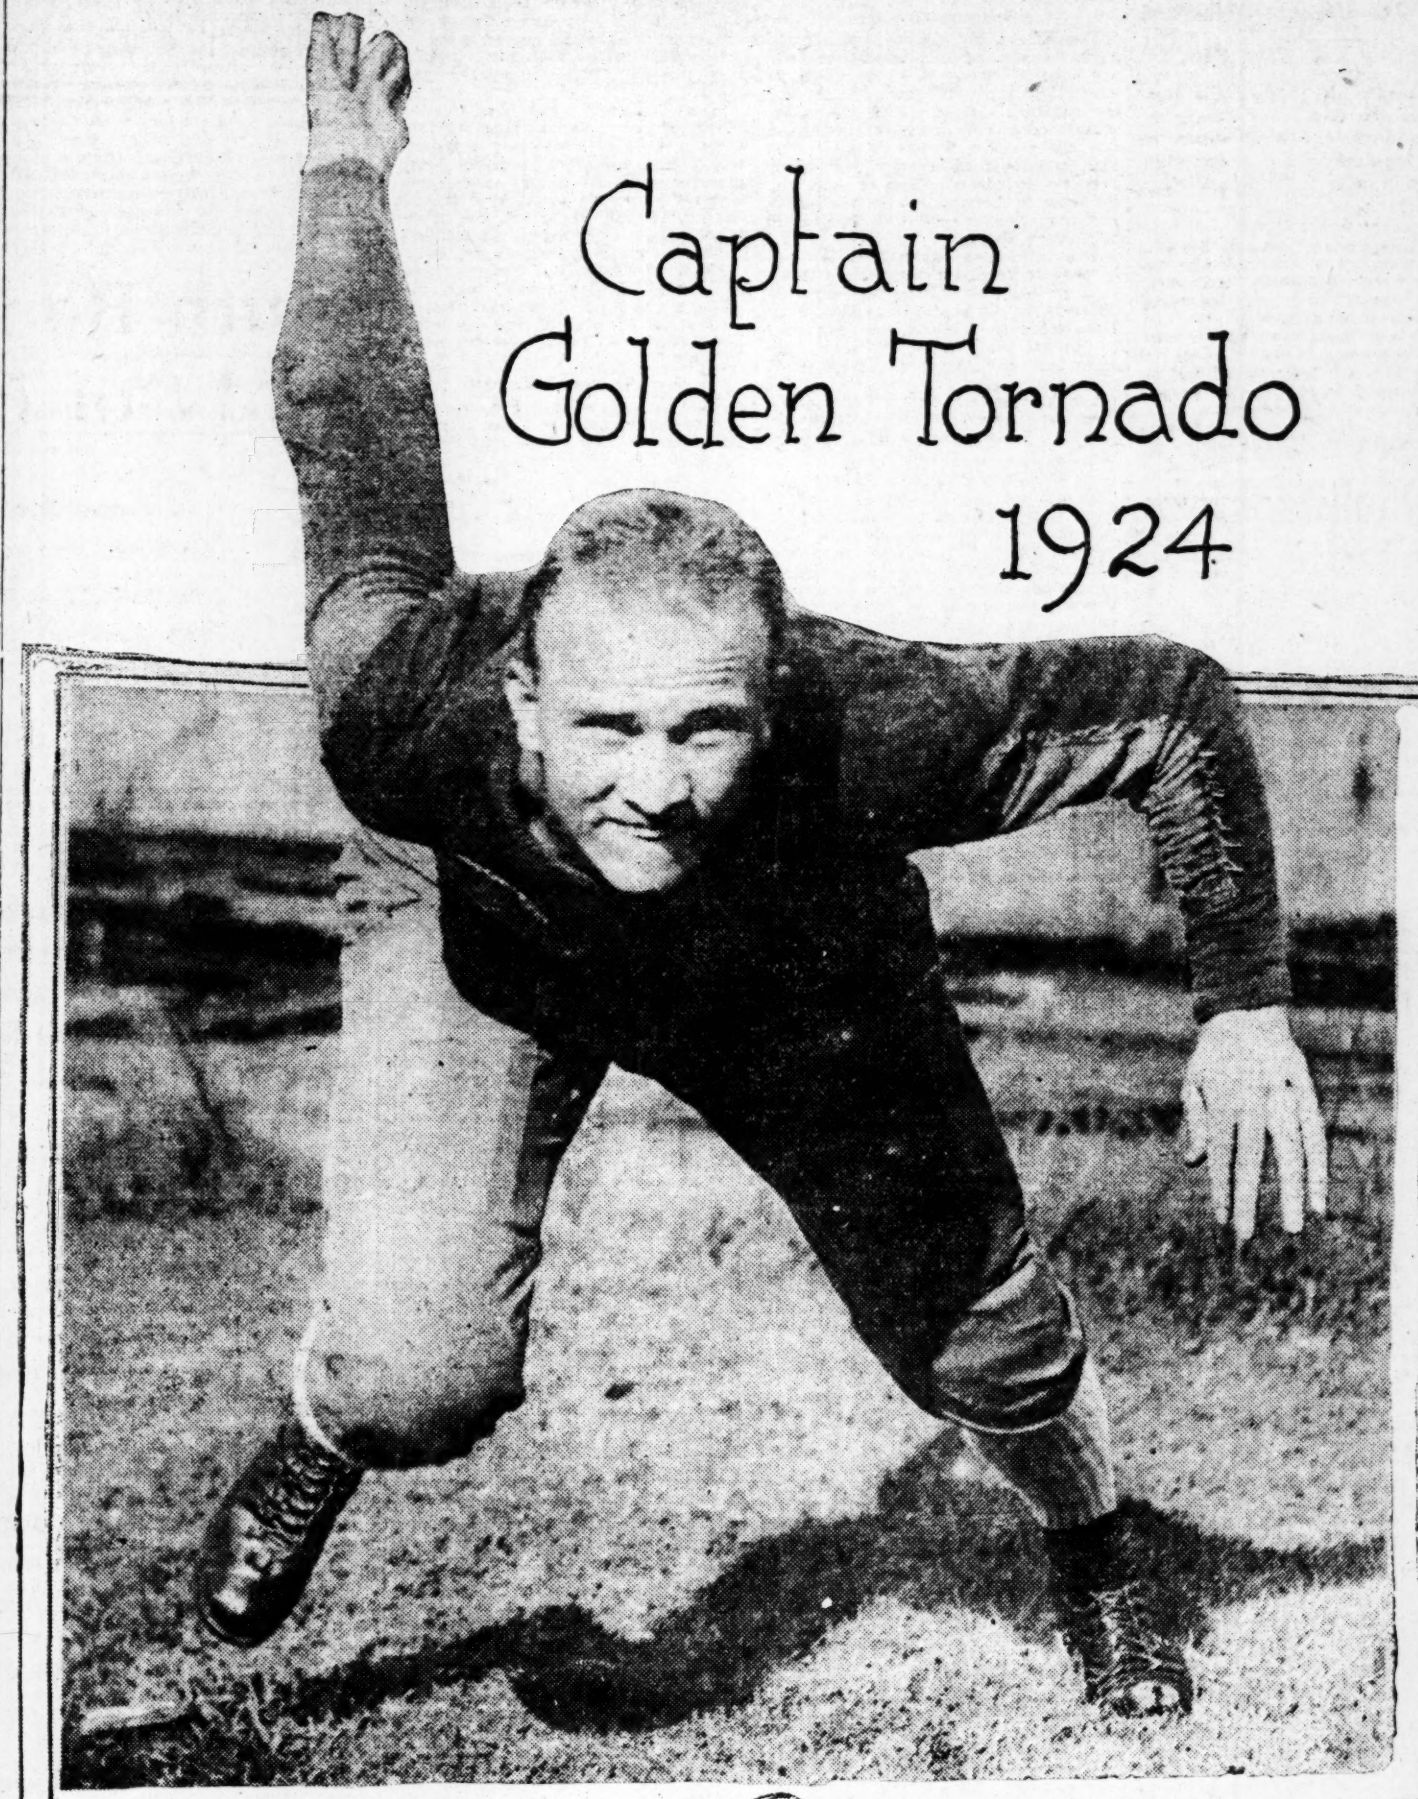

Major John S. Cohen, editor of the Atlanta Journal, expressed the pleasure that the newspaper men of Atlanta had in giving Tech all the support in their power.

High tributes were paid to the coaching staff at Tech—Alec Mack, Fay Wood, "Kid" Clay, "Dad" Amis, George Griffin and the rest. John Stanton said that he considered Alexander "the greatest man he ever knew" and the rest of the eleven echoed John's statement.

In addition to the team there were many of the alumni present, as well as members of the scrub team, Captain Murray, of the freshmen—and a likely candidate for center next season—and others closely connected with the team and its activities.

Gangway for Felton McConnell

Captain Golden Tornado 1924

Here's Tech's leader for 1924—Felton McConnell, splendid guard of the Golden Tornado, who next year plays his last year under the colors of Coach Aleck and the other hearties on Tech flats. Popular, possessed of innate fighting ability and impulse, Mack should make an ideal leader.

MAJORS FAIL IN WINTER DEALS

New York, December 14.—The halcyon days of the winter trading season in New York City, which began last week, have failed to live up to the hopes of the traders.

The Yankees and the Giants, who were expected to lead the winter trading season, have failed to live up to the hopes of the traders.

A PIECE FOR THE PAPER

Oh, Well.

Listen, now, the football season is over, you understand? We've been trying to get that message over now ever since the Saturday after Thanksgiving; we had discovered it in a moment of reckless abandon and we felt it our duty to let all our friends in on it. We've mentioned it in these columns no less than 746 times in the last two weeks. But nobody seemed to take us seriously.

In fact, what with all-southern, all-S. I. A. A., all-prep, all-South Dakota and all-Hancock county selections floating in, and what with reviews of the season and announcements of schedules and banquets and the like—we've often doubted our own word.

But Oglethorpe had her, or its, banquet some days ago, and last night Tech ate much food and heard some speeches, grew merry and stayed that way, elected a mighty fine captain for 1924—talked some, shoved back his chairs and filled out of the Capital City club, full of pep and full of food and full of reminiscences.

Now—the football season is over.

Just a minute, though, before acting too strongly on that information—Walter Camp announces his All-American pick next week. Well, if it finally does end—you can't say we didn't tell you about it.

MR. JOE BEAN HAS THE FLOOR.

Whereupon it is only natural that we, for the nineteenth time, like all others of the breed, inject some slight variation of the sun sets on the football season only to arise, bright and promising, on the season of the basketball tossers. And to be more specific, it devolves on us to discharge the pleasurable task of remarking on the season's formal opening in the Convention City, as the Gousinad of Fred Houser hath it.

In the Clemson "Y" the Atlanta Athletic club meets its first opponent of the 1924 season. Not heralded as particularly strong, most folk look for the visitors to provide nothing much more alluring than a practice game for Bean's fivesome. You understand, that's what most people think—so if any member of the Clemson team happens to read this after breakfast, we ask him please to refrain from any bodily injury. We are not going to be in the office all day, anyway.

THIS WAS A GOOD ONE.

Some two hundred and fifty members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a few days ago, received personal invitations from a very prominent Atlanta citizen, requesting their presence at a luncheon.

"Aha," they say, "they're stepping out; have been honored excessively; will certainly be there."

And these lads so honored, wishing to demonstrate their gratitude to the Very Prominent Citizen, doped up in best bibs and tuckers and proceeded to the scene of the luncheon. Whereupon the V. P. C. welcomed them cordially; made them a nice speech, and asked how many were members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Almost breathless, we ask him please to refrain from any bodily injury. We are not going to be in the office all day, anyway.

When suddenly there rushed in another band, bearing check books on every bank in Atlanta, looking very receptive. They immediately approached the invited guests and asked for their dues to the Jr. C. of C.

All those invited were young men who had failed to pay their this year's dues.

WILL STAGE X-COUNTRY RACE

Birmingham, Ala., December 14.—Fifty crack distance men of the south, representing colleges and athletic clubs, will participate in the thirteenth annual road race of the Birmingham Athletic club here tomorrow.

Seven teams and several unattached runners will compete for the four trophies offered.

Georgia Tech, Auburn, Alabama, Birmingham-Southern, Mississippi A. & M., Chattanooga and the Birmingham Athletic club have entered teams of six men each and runners from Georgia, Clemson and Atlanta Athletic club may be on hand to compete.

The James Edward Chappell trophy will go to the S. I. A. A. team placing first; B. A. C. trophy to the winner of the race; S. A. A. trophy to the team in the association placing first, and the Chenoweth cup will be awarded the first S. I. A. A. team finishing.

Tonight at 8 o'clock on the court of the Y. M. C. A., three of the Sunday school basketball teams of Atlanta will be seen in action. Besides the Sunday school games, the "Y" team will also have a part in the afternoon entertainment.

The first game on the program will be between Druid Hills Presbyterian and the Gordon Street Feds, and will get under way at 8 o'clock. Then, when the first half of his game is out of the way, the T. N. T. five and the Druid Hills Baptist outfit will clash. After they have their first half off the program, the Presbyterians and the Feds will continue their battle. When they have finished their scrap, the T. N. T. and the Baptists will finish up.

Then at 8 o'clock the "Y" teams and the Fort McPherson five will fight it out. After this game the last game on the list will be pulled off when the West End Presbyterians and St. Mark's Thorns battle.

Game Marks the Opening Of Local Cage Season; A. A. C. Heavy Favorite

Brief hours hence, on the floor of the A. A. C. gymnasium, certain motions will be gone through, such as a referee, tossing a ball into the air between two tall young gentlemen, so that they may leap up in an effort to snipe it—and the local basketball season of 1923-24 will be uncorked, pried open, inaugurated.

One of the young gentlemen will be in all probability, Rufus Bass, center for the athletic club, and the other will be the pivot man for the Clemson Y. M. C. A. Westmoreland, Alfred Scott, Louis Morrison and others of that ilk were coveting in the brief trunks of cage squad uniforms.

And after the game with Clemson, A. A. C. will have another hard contest to face in its tilt with the Jewish Progressive club team—a local organization which has evidently grown fast in ability during the past two years. Joe Bean, by the way, is coach of both teams, and the sturdy little mentor should find himself at thrusts with himself while he watches his two gangs in action against each other.

The most recent game of the J. P. C. was against the K. of C. team, and the progressive club boys ran up a total of 60 points while their antagonists were scoring seven. A team that can score 60 points, no matter what the opposition, evidently wastes not much time here ringing in a cage, so it is entirely probable that this contest will not be the "practice game," which is being expected on almost every hand—the "almost" being inserted for the special benefit of J. P. C. supporters, who believe that their lads can administer a dose of defeat to Coach Bean's more renowned team.

Announces Line-up.

Coach Bean, director of the A. A. C. five announced last night that he was not in a position to state just who the five men are that will start under the colors of the A. A. C., but he paused long enough in his rush of teaching basketball to the various quintets around the city to give two probable line-ups.

A likely lineup for tonight seems to be Captain Joe Singleton and Gene Whitley at forwards; Rufus Bass at center, with "Scrappy" Sullivan and George Ferrell at the guard positions. Another line-up: Tom Bryan and Enory Jenks, former Tech star, at forwards; Cooper at center, with Slater and Hartney at guards. Either one of the two named line-ups will play a creditable game and will give the fans something to talk about during the coming week.

Rufus Bass has been playing forward on the A. A. C. team for the past several years, but Coach Bean is convinced that Rufus can make a dependable center for his team and that is where Rufus has been practicing, since early in October, Gene Whitley is a new forward under the Bean regime, but an able one. Gene has been playing forward around the Y. M. C. A. many years and it was there that Bean was attracted by his greatest work as a forward.

Scrappy Sullivan needs no introduction to the A. A. C. fans, for he is a known quantity. Ferrell is a trifle new with the A. A. C., playing only the latter part of last season under the tutelage of Joe Bean. Ferrell came from the Agona five in the Sunday school league, where he was regarded as the best in the five leagues that contained some 38 teams.

Enory Jenks was a star at Tech for four years, and he has no doubt made a good forward, but at present he has been working with Bryan on the second varsity squad. Cooper, a young man from the Sunday school league, is a bit awkward at present but under the direction of Bean he should develop into a capable center. Hartney has been with Bean for several years.

MACON IS AWARDED S. I. A. A. BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Macon was awarded the basketball tournament to be staged this year by the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association at a meeting of the association held yesterday afternoon at the Piedmont hotel at which eighteen colleges were represented.

Resolutions concerning summer baseball and the one-year rule were made, but were referred to the executive committee which will meet under its report to the association at their second session this morning.

The date and other details of the cage tourney to be staged in Macon were not worked out, but Stanley Robinson, coach of Mercer University, was appointed chairman of a committee to work out all of these details.

Whether or not this tourney will be staged during the southern conference tourney, which will be held here during February, Mr. Robinson failed to state. It is possible that plans will be worked out for the winner of the southern conference tourney to meet the winner of the S. I. A. A. meet for the Dixie championship.

Apply for Admittance.

Eight colleges will probably apply for admittance to the association at the meeting today and will be passed on. The colleges that have stated they would apply are as follows: Louisiana University, Centenary, Louisiana College, Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Carson-Newman, Maryville College. It is probable that Southwestern and the Southern Presbyterian University will apply for admittance.

It was definitely decided that Swanee and Vanderbilt would also hold their memberships in both the conference and the association.

Dr. Thorne Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, delivered the address of welcome at the opening session and last night the delegates were entertained at a banquet tendered in their honor. Oglethorpe is acting as host to the association during the meeting here.

Dr. Proctor, of Mississippi College, president of the association, presided over the meeting.

The association will convene again this morning and it is expected that all business will be completed during the day.

SELECT TEAM FOR 1924 OLYMPIC GAMES

Chicago, December 14.—The American Olympic trapezoidal team was tentatively selected, with alternates, today by zone chairmen of the amateur trapezoidal association.

Selections for the southern zone are Paul Earle, of Starr, S. C., and John H. Noel, of Nashville, Tenn., as alternates.

The managing committee adopted a rule whereby the final selection of the men participating in the contest, either as a team or individual, will be determined by the ability of the shooters themselves, either in elimination races or practice shooting up to the time of the Olympic games.

U. S. TEAMS ACCEPT ENGLISH CHALLENGE

New York, December 14.—Great Britain's challenge for an international team race between 6-meter yachts on this side of the Atlantic has been accepted by the Seawanhauk Yacht club.

Four British clubs have sent challenges—the Royal Yacht Squadron, Royal Thames Yacht club, Royal London and Royal Victoria Yacht clubs.

The races will be held next August or September, and while details have not been completed it is expected they will be sailed either at Oyster Bay or Newport.

Americans have lost two races in British waters and have won one off the American coast.

Shuruge Winner Over Vicentini

New York, December 14.—Johnny Shuruge, of Waterbury, Conn., tonight administered to Luis Vicentini, Chilean lightweight, the first defeat he has suffered since coming to this country. Shuruge was given the judges' decision after their 12-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The Chilean led on points until the twelfth round, when Shuruge made a sensational rally and brought to an end the string of American victims that Vicentini had gathered since coming here. His three victories all were knockouts.

It was the Connecticut fighter's ability to rally after severe punishment that most surprised fans at the ringside. In the seventh round, Vicentini had his opponent on the verge of a knockout with blood flowing from his mouth and nose, but he couldn't get the devastating punch over.

Shuruge was lacking. Vicentini was eager to take the lead, but Shuruge beat him to it. The first six rounds Johnny's experience and his resourcefulness offset the Chilean's harder hitting, but after that Vicentini's sustained attack kept Shuruge more on the defensive. Had Vicentini the skill, it was the opinion he might have knocked out Shuruge in any of the later rounds except the last.

Irish Johnny Curtin, Jersey City heavyweight, won on a foul from Joe Ryder, of Brooklyn, tonight in the fifth round of a 12-round match, which shared the feature place on the card.

TODD TO CAPTAIN W. & M. GRID SQUAD

Williamsburg, Va., December 14.—John Todd was re-elected captain of the William and Mary football team at the annual banquet to the team tonight. Todd, whose home is in Newport News, led the team this year through its most successful season in the history of the college, and his reelection as captain of the 1924 squad was widely cheered by the student body. He has played center on the team during the past three seasons. He is also a letter man in track, baseball and basketball.

HARRY GREB DENIES RUMORS OF CRITICISM

New York, December 14.—Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, world's middleweight boxing champion, who lost a decision to Gene Tunney last Monday night in a contest for the American lightweight title, tonight sent the following letter to newspapers:

"I take this opportunity to deny the rumor floating around New York that I made a confession to the judges against the judges who acted at my fight with Gene Tunney. While I personally thought I won, the major, I thought I lost and I abide by the decision.

"I have always felt that I received fair treatment at the hands of the New York commission and always will be willing to box in New York state while boxing is governed by the type of men who are at the head of it today."

SHREVEPORT GETS NOTRE DAME STAR

Chicago, December 14.—The Chicago White Sox today released John Patazo, first baseman, and John Patazo, infielder, to Muskegon, Okla., and Paul Castner, pitcher, to Shreveport, La. Castner was a former star fullback at Notre Dame University. Roy Graham, a catcher, was also sent to Shreveport by the White Sox in payment for John F. Burns, a catcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Speer Entertain At Elaborate Dinner-Dance

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Speer entertained the officers and employees of the John M. Silvey company at the annual brilliant dinner-dance Friday evening at the Piedmont Driving club.

Dinner was served in the beautiful ballroom and every elaborate detail was carried out in crimson and white, suggestive of the Christmas season. A spruce pine tree, completely covered in snow, and hung with icicles, decorated the fireplace at the end of the room. A long table was placed before the fireplace and other tables extended down either side of the room. Twenty-four Christmas trees, exact replicas of the large tree, alternated with 12 crystal candlesticks holding red candles. Hand-painted cards marked the place of each guest, and the favors were miniature musical instruments—banjos, violins, guitars, horns and saxophones, which were tied with red and white ribbons.

Mrs. Speer wore an exquisite gown of white georgette crepe, lavishly embroidered in rhinestone and crystal. Her corsage was of Richmond roses. An orchestra furnished a musical program during dinner and played for dancing afterward.

Guests were placed for Mr. and Mrs. Speer, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Speer, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. H. McDaniel, Mr. and Mrs. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Raddy, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mrs. Augustine Sams Hostess at Large Tea in Decatur

Mrs. Augustine Sams entertained at a beautiful tea on Friday afternoon, at her new home on the north Decatur road.

The Christmas colors and suggestions were used throughout the house. Holly, red wreaths, blooming poinsettias and red lighted candles were used in the living room.

An exquisite Mexican drawn work cloth was used on the tea table. A blooming poinsettia formed the central decoration and was surrounded by red lighted tapers, held in silver candlesticks, tied with red tulle. The mints and bon-bons were in red and green.

Mrs. Ed. Terrell poured tea, and Mrs. Palmer Pratt poured coffee. Little Sara Catherine Terrell and Nell Scott Earhartman received the guests.

Receiving with Mrs. Augustine Sams were, Mrs. C. D. Dodd, Mrs. J. A. Sams, and Mrs. A. R. Seffens. Misses Mary and Elizabeth Dodd served punch.

Assisting in entertaining were: Mrs. D. P. McGeachy, Mrs. Cone Bond, Miss Katie Lucia Sams, Miss Eugenia Dodd, Miss May Rybert, Miss

Mrs. Ashby Will Lecture Sunday

The Atlanta Psychological society, Mrs. Rose Mae Ashby, president, will meet Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the mahogany room of the Anley hotel. Selling

The occasion of this sale today is the late arrival of 200 new dresses specially bought as a price concession that enables us to sell them at this small price.

To the collection we have added 167 dresses selected from stock—dresses reduced from $25 and $29.75. None of these could by any chance be considered undesirable. They're reduced because the dress market is lower now, and we can buy the same dresses for less than we paid for those in stock.

Our December Dress Sales have proved gratifyingly successful. The crowds that fill this store are eager buyers. They know Lewis values.

Children Urged To Bring Presents For Xmas Party

Preparations for the mayor's Christmas party at the Howard theater will begin at the boys and girls' matinee Saturday, December 15, 10 o'clock.

A large box will be placed in the lobby of the theater and placarded. Each boy and girl coming to enjoy this week's excellent program is requested to bring a used, discarded or new toy, some useful warm article of used or outgrown clothing to place in this "charity" box.

At the mayor's Christmas party at 10 o'clock on Monday, December 24, these gifts will be distributed to the poor and needy children of Atlanta, so don't forget to bring "your" contribution when you come to see Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in "Stephen Steps Out," which will be shown at the boys and girls' matinee at the Howard Saturday, December 15, 10 o'clock.

The regular meeting of the club will be held immediately afterwards in same hall from 3 to 4 o'clock. An interesting Schumann program will be in charge of Mrs. Jane Mattingly. This is an open meeting to members and their invited guests.

This week's is a splendid program. Don't fail to come and enjoy Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., in his first appearance in Atlanta and don't fail to bring your donation to the boys and girls' charity Christmas box.

The Alpha theater will present "The Indian Lament," a first run Indian drama, as the feature picture at the boys and girls' matinee Saturday, December 15, at 9:30 o'clock.

This five-reel Consolidated film stars Marie Walcamp, and is an attractive and new type of picture that will prove educational as well as entertaining to children.

"A Fatal Count," the seventh episode of the "Ruth of the Range" serial Pathe picture, with a very funny comedy entitled "Hard Luck" featuring Buster Keaton, will complete the program.

Announcement of an attractive program which is being arranged by Mrs. Hunter Smith and Miss Myra Graves will appear later.

Mrs. Ellis Barrett and Mrs. W. K. Wyant will act as chaperones.

Miss Stephens' Play, 'Roseanne,' Will Open in New York Dec. 29

The announcement that Miss Nan Stephens' play, "Roseanne," will have its premiere performance in New York at the Greenwich Village theater December 29, is of greatest interest to the many admirers in Atlanta and throughout the south of this talented author and playwright.

Correlative with this announcement is the hint that three prominent Atlantans will be among those who will appear in the production. While not definitely stated, this interesting announcement is expected at an early date.

Another former Atlantian, Miss Mary H. Kirkpatrick, will produce the play under the direction of the Schucherts, while Rachel Crothers, veteran woman playwright, will be the director.

What Women Wear

BY ANNE RITTENHOUSE.

It's an Odd Fad to Hide a Charming Gown Under Folds of a Shawl or Scarf.

When Lloyd George was in America his charming daughter Megan had the distinction of setting a fashion, or, rather, stammering a fashion already "set" with her approval. When her father made his speech in New York she was observed in a stage box so closely enveloped in a Spanish shawl that no curious eye could discover what sort of frock she wore. The important thing was that she wore the shawl and that it was vastly becoming.

At the opera and important "first nights" you may have seen young women doing much the same thing. One young girl recently was observed surrounded by a cloud of rose tulle. It was no ordinary scarf because it left one in doubt as to what was worn beneath it—save that the frock was also rose colored.

This does seem like hiding one's candle under a bushel—to wear a charming evening gown and then hide it for an entire evening under the folds of a cape or scarf. It is much the same idea as wearing an evening jacket over one's evening gown—a fad that has been followed quite a bit in London where short "minnie" also white lapin—evening jackets are quite in demand.

The extreme simplicity of the bodies of almost all evening frocks may have something to do with

This black satin waist, buttoned in front like basque, has narrow turn-over collar and cuffs.

This, it is only because we have been used to them that we do not consider them very trying.

Plans Are Made To Give Hearings On Trolley Plea

Plans for hearings on the Georgia Railway and Power company petition for better operating conditions for street cars were made Friday night at the first session of the special committee of council designated to consider the petition.

Conferees are to be held first with officials of the street car company, who will be asked to explain in detail the meaning of the petition, the probable effect of each change asked, and the probable result of failure to permit the changes. After that, all private and civic interests are to be given an opportunity to be heard at public hearings. J. R. Bachman is chairman of the committee.

The street car company has declared its inability to make any further extensions in lines or improvements in service because of lack of funds. It has asked 10-cent single cash fares and 2-cent transfer—elimination of jitneys from streets on which cars operate; relief from paying for paving streets along the tracks and lightening of the tax burden.

FORD BOOMERS OFFER NO BID TO NEW PARTY

Detroit, Mich., December 14.—No overtures will be made to the farmer-labor party to have it align itself with the national Ford-for-President movement, but its effort to throw its force behind the Ford boom will not be deprecated, Robert B. Pointer, a member of the executive committee, declared today.

Mr. Pointer made this statement in connection with the announcement that he had received telegrams from the leaders of the progressive party in Idaho and Missouri and from the chairman of the farmer-labor party of Colorado. The telegrams urged the handful of Ford supporters here to draft Henry Ford for president.

Mr. Pointer reiterated his statement that the conference will meet in Chicago, St. Louis or Kansas City late in January or early in February of next year, and would nominate Mr. Ford for president.

LA FOLLETTE CUTS AT COOLIDGE NOTE

Washington, December 14.—Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, leader of the progressives who are consistently blocking regular republicans in both house and senate, has broken his silence with a slashing attack on President Coolidge's message to congress and a warning "that congress shall not adjourn without going on record on the great issues which confront the people."

Speaking through his magazine, La Follette, in an editorial made public here, takes issue with practically every recommendation made by the president, declaring that Coolidge's first message to congress "is an able, concise and frank presentation of the standpoint, reactionary theory of government."

"The president," he says, "has elected to cast his lot with the reactionaries of his own party who have been repudiated by the country and to promote the welfare of those predatory special interests which have thrived for a generation upon favors and subsidies expected from the federal government."

"There is nothing in the message that will offend the most sensitive of the big business interests," La Follette declared. "There is little in the message that will satisfy the mass of the American people."

"The president places himself squarely on record in defense of the Esch-Cummins law—a law which has been repudiated by the people of every state in which it has been an issue, and which is responsible for present extortionate railroad rates, based on inflated and fictitious valuation of railroad property."

"The Mellon tax plan, whereby the great fortunes built up during the world war are to be relieved of the righteous requirement of paying a just share of the expenses of the war, has the president's 'unqualified approval.' The president pleases the same great interests by stating, without qualification, that he is opposed to the paying of adjusted compensation to the men who fought the war, while these fortunes were being amassed and enlarged."

Mrs. Newell Is Hostess.

Mrs. Louis Newell was hostess at an informal bridge party Friday afternoon at her home at the Georgian Terrace, which was the first of a series of holiday affairs at which she will entertain during the Christmas season.

The game was played in the palm room. The prizes were a Madeira boudoir pillow for top score, a bottle of French perfume and a hand-embroidered card-table cover.

Mrs. Newell was covered in black silk and lace. Assisting her in entertaining were Mrs. Charles Byrd, Mrs. John E. Smith and Mrs. Jerome Dean.

Work on Market Progresses.

According to Mrs. Norman Sharp, chairman of the curb market committee of the Atlanta Woman's club, work is rapidly progressing on the market building and arrangements are being made for elaborate ceremonies which will take place early in the year, when the momentous occasion of laying the cornerstone of the building will occur.

The directors of the market building are hopeful that the building will be entirely completed within the next month or two and the work of the municipal market thoroughly established. The Christmas trade is showing up splendidly and the farmers are furnishing thousands of housewives with turkeys, chickens, rabbits, squirrels, pure country sausage, together with all seasonal green vegetables and dairy products.

The educational program which Mrs. Sharp has outlined will begin the first Saturday in January, when the farmers will be provided with instructions how to raise poultry, eggs and much greater extent.

The patronesses for Saturday are Mrs. Almonzo Richardson, Mrs. E. B. McDonald, Mrs. W. W. Springer, Mrs. Herbert Choate, Mrs. C. K. Ayers, Mrs. E. V. Hohenstein, Mrs. W. E. Becker, Mrs. Norman Poole, Mrs. W. D. Dunn, Mrs. William Rawlings, Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, Mrs. L. T. D. Quincy, Mrs. W. W. Alexander, Mrs. Lucien Harris, Mrs. W. W. Barker, Mrs. Thomas Harmon, Mrs. M. BISHOPS WILL NOT DISCUSS HERESY

Sun Antonio, Texas, December 14.—The question of heresy in the Methodist Episcopal church, south, and matters pertaining to efforts now being made to unify the northern and southern branches of the church, will not be brought up before the college of bishops of the southern branch of the church, in semi-annual meeting here, it was ascertained today at the close of the afternoon session of the meeting.

This is contrary to announcements at the beginning of the meeting that these questions would probably be discussed. It is pointed out that discussion of these subjects would be more or less futile, since the college of bishops has a purely executive function and is not vested with legislative powers.

According to the information made public on the meeting the report most interesting to the church generally was that of Dr. H. K. Carroll, Plainsfield, Va., secretary of the Asbury Memorial association, in which he announced to the bishops that the equestrian statue of Bishop Francis Asbury, who was the organizer of American Methodism, will be unveiled in Washington in June, provided the church will advance the remaining $30,000 needed for financing the statue.

The site for the erection of the statue of Bishop Asbury was set aside in Washington by an act of congress. The college of bishops was asked by Dr. Carroll to recommend that the church advance the sum needed by the association.

POINCARE UPHELD BY HAND BALLOT

Paris, December 14.—A determined attack on Premier Poincare's policies today when M. Mandel, a member of the Clemenceau group, attempted to force the premier into making a declaration concerning internal politics as a guide to the senatorial elections to be held early in January.

The interpellation of the deputy suffered the fate of all the others during the past two years. M. Poincare refused even to promise that he would make a declaration prior to the recess of parliament which, incidentally, was officially fixed for December 31. He insisted that internal politics should not come up for discussion before interpellations on the government's foreign policy had been answered. The chamber upheld the premier by a show of hands.

Change in Central Fire Station Site To Be Taken in 1924

Official action toward consolidating downtown fire stations and removing the central station from Alabama street will be deferred until 1924, it became apparent Friday when no action was taken at the meeting of the board of firemasters, the last it held prior to the next 1923 session of council Monday.

A special sub-committee of the board is still working, members said, to find a suitable site for a consolidated station, one that will be located to serve the best interests of the city.

A Chinese general plans to teach Chinese soldiers scientific cultivation with modern farm machinery, and then organize them into labor brigades for colonization of the vast waste lands of northwest China.

Not Enough Power Developed to Meet Demands of Georgia

More than three-fourths of the population of Georgia is living in sections where electricity is unobtainable, while some 2,000,000 horsepower runs to waste undeveloped, according to a review of the power situation just issued by the Municipal League of Georgia. The bulletin asserts that power generated by coal in Alabama is being sent into Georgia because the power companies which control an abundance of water power in Georgia have failed to develop enough power to meet the demands in this state.

THE HOUSEHOLD

Edited by Anna Bittencourt.

CONSIDER YOUR CLOCK.

No housewife realizes how much she depends on the knowledge of the time at all hours of her working day as she does on that day when she has broken the mainspring of her watch, the alarm clock is running right, the fast, the kitchen clock is going slow, and the living room clock suddenly runs down and stops because somebody forgot to wind it. Housewives of many centuries ago did not know the luxury of the constant knowledge of time. Clocks were too expensive to be possessed by every small householder. If they lived in villages or towns they often could keep track of the passing hours by the striking of the hours on the tower clock on church or other "utilite building."

But now there is hardly anyone who cannot afford some sort of timepiece. There is less disposition to display a variety of ornamental clocks in every room of our house than there was a generation ago when clockmakers seemed to conspire with each other to see which could put in clocks in the most fantastic places. You may avoid having a clock in your formal reception room, but in the living room you have a clock in plain sight.

In placing your clocks remember that they do not like extremes of temperature. Don't put a hanging clock on an exposed outside wall. Don't put a clock on a ledge over the kitchen stove where it is often surrounded by steam. Don't put a clock near a window where it may be rained upon or where it may catch the sun's rays. Remember that a clock must be taken to the jeweler's every year or so, whether it is in order or not, so that it can be cleaned.

A tablespoonful of vinegar in the first rinse water will brighten the colors in silk and ribbons.

To Clean Flowers.
Dry bran is excellent for cleaning velvet flowers. Simply rub on the soiled parts and brush off.

A Grease Cutter.
Pour boiling water down the drain pipe frequently. This will keep your main clear and sanitary.

Cold Feet.
Sprinkle salt in the bottom of your shoes this winter. This will help circulation and prevent your feet from getting cold.

Let Steam Do It.
None of us exactly relishes cleaning the oatmeal boiler, but if we would put the double boiler on the stove for a few minutes and let the water in the bottom steam through the top, our work would be greatly simplified, as the oatmeal would be loosened and washed away readily.

625-POUND HOG SOLD ON AMERICAN MARKET

Americus, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—What is believed to be the champion meat hog raised in Georgia this year has just been marketed in Americus by J. D. Bryant. The hog was slaughtered on the Bryant farm three miles out on the Dawson road and the carcass sold in Americus for a good cash price. It weighed a total of 625 pounds. The hog was a purebred Duroc, one of a number in the drove owned by Mr. Bryant, and was fed out on field crops with a finishing ration of corn during the last three weeks before being slaughtered.

Game Postponed.
Dawson, Ga., Dec. 14.—(Special.) The Dawson Hill and Richland Hill basketball game scheduled to be played here tonight has been postponed indefinitely according to a statement of Coach Cox, who received a wire from the Richland officials just 30 minutes before the game was to have started, stating that the road conditions prohibited their coming.

PHILADELPHIA GROUP BUYS PLANT IN WARE

Waycross, December 14.—(Special.) An announcement was made here today to the effect that the Municipal Service company of Philadelphia had purchased all of the interest of the Fish estate in the Ware County Light and Power company and would immediately take over the operation of the local company. The Municipal Service company owns and operates the lighting plant of the city of Valdosta. No announcements have yet been made as to probable changes in the local management, and it is presumed that the recent force will continue in charge for the present.

Jane Hedden Hat Pattern

No. 8-735.

The coronet of this quaint turban is laid in an irregular fold to form an irregular line which is very becoming.
The embroidery is of all over cut outs which are connected with a solid homeromb design of metal threads. This gives opportunity for unusual color combinations. Dull tapestry blues, jade and orange embroidery with gold threads, or brown satin make a handsome hat for wear with a seal coat. Gray, blue and orchid on silver cloth is one of the more dressy combinations.

MATERIAL REQUIRED.

1 soft pressed crown, 1 cap lining

4 yards brace wire, 3-8 yard elastic net or willow, 1-2 yard 36 inch satin or silk embroidery or brocade, tines thread.

HAT PATTERN ORDER.

This order will bring you pattern and working instructions for marking hat illustrated above. Fill in name and address, inclose 25 cents in stamps, postal note or coins—address Flat Pattern Department, Atlanta Constitution. Inclosed find 25 cents. C. G. DAWES SLATED FOR GERMAN PROBE

Paris, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—The personnel of the American representation on the two international committees which are to investigate the German financial situation depends upon the American state department and the acceptance of those invited to participate, it is understood here, but the approval of General Charles G. Dawes and his willingness to serve are said in reparations circles to be certain.

Owen Young, prominent lawyer and member of the board of directors of the international chamber of commerce, is understood also to be entirely acceptable. Who the third American will be remains a matter of speculation in Paris, although Willis H. Booth, New York banker and several others are mentioned.

The invitations to the experts who are to sit on the two international committees that are to examine Germany's financial troubles will probably be sent out early next week, it was said today. It is expected that the committee will be able to begin their work about January 10.

NEW PACT PLAN PLEASES GERMANY

Berlin, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—America's prospective participation in the reparations discussion received general welcome from the German press which, while stressing its unqualified character, nevertheless believes the part to be played by American experts is destined to have a decisive bearing on the ultimate conclusions to be reached by the international committee.

Reichstag circles also are inclined to take a more hopeful view of the resumption of the reparations negotiations on the ground that it was largely influenced by the German government's request that the United States enter the conference chamber, thereby proving that Germany is determined to invoke every efficient agency on behalf of the economic reconstruction of Europe.

U. S. SUBMARINE FLATS FREE FROM MUD FLAT

New York, December 14.—The United States submarine S-26 grounded this morning on a mud bank off Execution Rock in Long Island sound about three miles from New Rochelle, N. Y., but pulled herself free this afternoon and proceeded on her way to New York.

Chauffeur Wrote Letter of Hate To Pacify Girl

London, December 14.—A sensational turn was given the divorce case of Lady Moore, wife of Sir Harold de Courcy Moore, when the chauffeur was correspondent by the husband Friday repudiated charges made in the "hate letter" he had written Lady Moore.

William Harvey, the chauffeur, had written "you have ruined two lives, mine and that of the only little girl I could ever have made my wife—why did you lead me away from the path I wanted to follow?—I hate you, and all that is connected with you."

"I wrote it to pacify my young lady friend," Harvey said when testifying Friday. He admitted the charges were false.

Harvey denied misconduct or familiarity with Lady Moore, and also denied kissing her, despite the previous evidence of witnesses introduced on behalf of Sir Harold.

Lady Moore, an attractive brunette, also declared that there was no justification for Harvey's letter alleging she ruined his life.

She testified that Harvey had never been in her bedroom, but admitted she gave the young chauffeur a pair of her husband's pajamas, which Sir Harold later found in the chauffeur's bedroom.

She stated, however, that she understood that Harvey's mother had not let the pajamas up to make garments for her children. She denied the charge that her father was a French nobleman.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday of next week.

$1,224,531 TAX LIEN FILED AGAINST MORSE

New York, December 14.—Counsel for C. W. Anderson, collector of internal revenue, today filed in federal court a tax lien against Charles W. Morse, of New York, Fifteenth street, N. W., Washington, D. C., for $1,224,531.24.

The lien was for unpaid income taxes due from 1910 to 1919, inclusive, amounting to $750,570 with accrued penalties. The lien was for individual taxes and had nothing to do with shipping corporations in which Morse is interested.

Under the existing law, the collector can seize everything Morse has with a few exceptions, internal revenue officers said.

STRESEMANN ANXIOUS FOR EARLY SHOWDOWN

Berlin, December 14.—(By Associated Press.)—Dr. Stresemann, the foreign minister, is determined to bring about an early clarification of Franco-German relations, especially with regard to France's plans in the Rhineland and the occupied Ruhr sector.

Since assuming the foreign portfolio the former chancellor has pressed on Chancellor Marx and his colleagues in the cabinet the immediate urgency of "smoking out" France and French aspirations in occupied Germany. Until France is forced to show her colors Dr. Stresemann believes, all budgetary calculations or attempts to salvage Germany's internal economic situation will be futile.

In a frank discussion of the Rhineland situation with the German editors, the foreign minister announced that Germany would seek only contact with Paris and Brussels for the purpose of initiating discussions calculated to restore German jurisdiction in the occupied zone sufficiently to enable the government to obtain unrestricted control of the economic and administrative machinery.

To this extent the Marx cabinet is taking a new course in that it proposes to eliminate all local control commissions, or even the recently constituted "committee of six," which was to be accorded plenary powers in connection with its negotiations with the occupation authorities.

Upon the success of these impending negotiations will depend the question of appointing an ambassador to succeed the late Dr. Mayer, who was recalled soon after the French invaded the Ruhr and who subsequently died. The foreign minister informed the editors that three candidates proposed by Germany had been rejected by Premier Poincare.

SOCIALIST GOVERNMENT OF SAXONY RESIGNS

Berlin, December 14.—The socialist government of Saxony has resigned following withdrawal of support of the democratic party.

The action of the democrats was taken when the socialists refused to join in supporting a vote of lack of confidence aimed at Herr Liebmann, the minister of the interior.

Judge Would Revive Old Whipping Post For Wife Beaters

New York, December 14.—The whipping post of branding irons for wife-beaters was advocated today by Magistrate McAndrews in imposing a sentence of sixty days in the workhouse on Hyman Levine for beating his wife.

"If I had my way," he said, "I would have you tied to a whipping post in the middle of the street while half a dozen strong men lashed your back, or else I would have you branded so that all decent men who met you on the street would shun you."

GOVERNMENT CHEMIST FINDS SUGAR SUBSTITUTE

Washington, December 14.—A new process of making crystalline maltose sugar from corn starch, has been developed by H. C. Gore, a department of agriculture chemist. Cost of production is as low or lower than cane sugar. Officials stated today in announcing the new process, which is simple and involves no unusual equipment. The process has not yet been industrialized, they stated, and it is too early to predict its bearing on the utilization of corn.

Immigration Meeting Thrown in Uproar By Women Speakers

New York, December 14.—Charges that the national immigration conference's two-day session had been given over to a preponderant exposition of the views of interests moved by selfish motives were made at today's meeting by Mrs. William Cunningham Story, of New York, former president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

A few minutes later the meeting was again thrown into an uproar when Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, director of Voluntary Parenthood League, attempted to speak on birth control as a means of solving the immigration problem. Protesting cries came from the floor and conference Chairman Peter J. Brady ordered Mrs. Dennett from the platform. She protested but withdrew as the delegates applauded the ruling.

DECISION REVERSED ON COAL MINE ROAD

Washington, December 14.—The interstate commerce commission today reversed a previous decision in which it had laid down the broad principle that no further railway construction should be authorized to open new coal mines.

In its original finding, handed down last spring, the commission refused the Virginia railway authority to extend its Guyandot river branch a distance of slightly over a mile, in order to reach mines of the Pocahontas Fuel company. Today's decision declared that present and future public convenience and necessity required the new construction involved and authorized the railroad to proceed.

In its original finding, handed down last spring, the commission refused the Virginia railway authority to extend its Guyandot river branch a distance of slightly over a mile, in order to reach mines of the Pocahontas Fuel company. Today's decision declared that present and future public convenience and necessity required the new construction involved and authorized the railroad to proceed.

At a rehearing, today's decision declared, evidence was produced showing conclusively that the railroad would be able to increase its coal tonnage progressively in the future by reason of additional facilities acquired and anticipated.

2 MEN ARE INDICTED IN COLUMBUS KILLING

Columbus, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Vester Taylor and Granville Hurst, both of Columbus, were indicted by the Muscogee county grand jury here in connection with the slaying of Sidney Odum, of Columbus, on Monday morning.

Odum, a North Highland merchant, was shot late one night as he was going from his place of business to his home. Robbery was thought to be the motive.

OKLAHOMA INDIANS TO SUE FOR $24,000,000

Bartlesville, Okla., December 14.—The Delaware and Cherokee Indian tribes of Oklahoma soon will file suits against the federal government for the recovery of more than $24,000,000 which they claim is due them on deals involving their lands, members of both tribes declared after a meeting here today.

A claim for $20,000,000 will be based on the so-called "Freedman claims" the Indians announced, relating to the allotment of Indian lands to negro slaves at the close of the Civil war. Details of the case were not divulged.

NEW POWER SOURCE FOR QUITMAN SOON

Quitman, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Quitman will have hydroelectric light and power current within thirty days if the contract which will be mailed to the Manager, Fluor, and the city commission within the next few days is approved and signed. This announcement comes as the regular power plant of the city, owned by the Georgia-Alabama Power company, is being replaced by a new plant, constructed from Valdosta to Quitman and the current turned on. In this event it is not known just what would become of the Quitman municipal water and light plant, as the Valdosta Lighting company is ready to contract itself to maintain the steam plant in Valdosta as a supplementary power station and there would be no need for a steam plant in Quitman.

The conference was lengthy, and while nothing was settled by either side that could be regarded as bringing the visitors left in the afternoon Valdosta with the understanding mutually agreeable that a definite proposition in writing would be furnished by the Valdosta Lighting company and mailed within the immediate future to City Manager Fluor.

NEGROES IN MONROE FORM FARMING BODY

Forsyth, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—At a recent meeting at the A. & M. school here, several of the leading negro farmers of Monroe county met and organized a county farmers' institute. Their object is to put themselves in position to cooperate more fully with the United States department of agriculture, the State College of Agriculture and the negro demonstration agent, S. H. Lee, who has recently come to this county as a county agent, with headquarters at the school.

FORSYTH RED CROSS NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Forsyth, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—A reorganization of the Forsyth chapter of the Red Cross has been perfected with the election of the following officers: Dr. G. L. Alexander, chairman; Rev. R. L. Davis, co-chairman; Miss Louise Wallace, secretary, and Charnes W. Hill, treasurer. The relief committee consists of George W. Newton, chairman; Mrs. B. S. Willingham, Mrs. O. P. Ensign, Mrs. J. H. Clark and Mrs. J. E. Bogie. J. H. Clark is chairman of publicity. The object of the reorganization of the chapter is that it may function as a charity organization for the town and county. All calls for relief will be submitted to the relief committee through its chairman.

AMERICUS WILL HOLD HOG SALE NEXT WEEK

Americus, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The annual sale of the livestock year will be held next Wednesday, December 19, at Americus, according to an announcement by J. B. Marshall, county farm demonstration agent.

A sale will be held at Americus Tuesday, and it is expected that a total of five cars or more will be disposed of in the two sales. Farmers already have placed enough hogs to make more than two cars at the Americus sale, and Marshall confidently expects at least four cars will be offered in the sale at the Leslie pen.

White Friends Pay Tribute of Love To Negro Mammy

By Bessie Stafford.
A touch of the sentiment of the old south is recorded in the death of Lavinia Brown, occurred Friday morning at her home, 72 Chamberlin street, after a year's illness from heart trouble.

For more than 20 years she had served faithfully in the family of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy, having nursed their daughters, Mrs. Conkey Whitehead and Miss Katherine Murphy, when they were children. She was known to them as "mammy," that term of endearment which only the southern child can appreciate and understand, for they held her in real affection.

The white crepe de chine robe she will be buried in was selected and given by Mrs. Murphy, and on her casket there is a handsome floral offering sent by the Murphy family.

Lavinia Brown belonged to the times when the best of relations and feelings existed between the races. She maintained that relationship and the allegiance to her duties throughout her entire life. She was a typical aristocrat in her people.

Her loyalty to her trusted position of service, and her regard for the "ties that bind," were her outstanding characteristics.

Her mother was a slave in the family of the late Phil Cook, who was secretary of state and the father of the late Mrs. William L. Peel.

The funeral of Lavinia Brown will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Wheat Street Baptist church. She leaves three daughters and one son, Laura Brown, a daughter, has been in the employ of Mr. and Mrs. Murphy for many years.

WARE GRAND JURY OPPOSES REMOVAL OF ROAD OFFICES

Waycross, December 14.—(Special.)—Opposing the removal of the local office of the state highway department to Albany and commanding the county commission on the splendid and highly creditable manner in which the commission was handling the hard surfacing of the highway south of Waycross, the Ware county grand jury today filed with Judge J. I. Sumnerall its recommendations.

In its recommendation the grand jury appealed to the people of Ware county to obey and uphold at all times the arm of the law.

Good Holiday Trade.

Sparta, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The merchants of Sparta are enjoying the best holiday trade they have experienced for the past several years, which, they say, is a fair indication that conditions have improved greatly. Money seems to be much more plentiful. Most of the merchants have made special preparations for the Christmas trade and have large stocks.

Sparta Holidays.

Sparta, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The Sparta public schools will close next Friday for the holiday season. They will remain closed for a period of two weeks. The fall term has been one of the most successful in the history of the school. The attendance has increased so much that an extra teacher will be put on when school opens in January.

Ship Much Lumber.

Sparta, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—The lumber industry in Hancock county, while not as brisk as it has been, is still holding up well. Many carloads each week are being shipped from the various planing mills, while others are shipping pine and poplar logs to mills in distant cities. Several of the mills will have enough timber to carry them well into next year.

MARINE HEAD TO TRAIN PHILADELPHIA POLICE

Washington, December 14.—The police of Philadelphia will have a year of the kind, Director E. J. Connelley, who has been giving to the United States marines.

General Butler has been granted leave of absence for one year, part of which he has accumulated by taking less than the regulations allow him, to enable him to accept the post of director of public safety of Philadelphia, and he is expected to take up his duties there about January 1.

WANAMAKER'S ESTATE IS VALUED AT $1,302,995

Philadelphia, December 14.—An inventory of the personal estate of the late John Wanamaker, filed with the register of wills here gives the total value as $1,302,995.32. His interest in the Wanamaker stores in Philadelphia and New York, which he gave to his son, Rodman, was not included in the appraisal.

PAYMASTER IS ROBBED OF $15,786 BY BANDITS

Philadelphia, December 14.—Two bandits today bound and gagged the paymaster of Michael Melody & Son company, builders, in the offices of the concern and fled with $15,786, which he was placing in envelopes to pay the employees.

MINISTER IS MISSING FOLLOWING DUCK HUNT

Knoxville, Tenn., December 14.—Searching parties reported today have been unable to find Rev. J. S. Jones, Maryland Methodist minister, who went on a duck hunt eleven days ago and has not been heard from since. They are continuing their efforts, however.

Mrs. George Slade Dead.

New York, December 14.—Mrs. George T. Slade, daughter of the late James J. Hill, railroad magnate, died at her home here early today.

FIRE AND SWORD USED BY CHINESE BANDITS

Shanghai, December 14.—(By the Associated Press.)—Three thousand bandits under the leadership of the notorious chieftains, Chen Yen Teh and Wang Han Ying, captured the town of Chahow Wednesday, burning and looting the houses and carrying off the magistrate and education commissioner and two other officials, together with more than 100 residents of the town, including many women, according to dispatches received here from Changsha.

Inhabitants of the town who escaped from the bandits during the pillaging of their homes fled to the nearby city of Kweiyang. They reported that the magistrate of Chahow was slain after he had been taken prisoner.

The town is in the southern part of the inland province of Hunan, which is west of here. Changsha is the capital city of the province and more than 100 miles north of the scene of the bandit outrage.

PSEUDO SAILORS MUST SERVE TIME IN ATLANTA

New Orleans, December 14.—John Phillips and James Wood pleaded guilty in federal court today to forging United States navy transportation orders and were sentenced by Judge Rufus Foster to serve a year and a day in the Atlanta penitentiary.

Repairs Completed.

Sparta, Ga., December 14.—(Special.)—Repairs which have been in progress on the building of the Sparta Savings bank for the past few months have been completed. The building has been remodeled inside and out. The upper story has been rented to several of the physicians of Sparta for their offices.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA SHOWS HOW RAILROADS MUST SPEND MONEY TO SAVE MONEY

If the railroads are ever to be able to reduce rates without rendering inadequate service to the public, they must be able to raise capital in large sums to keep themselves provided with the most modern facilities to enable them to reduce the cost of operation. If the country is to have cheaper rail transportation, it must first have prosperous railroads. The railroads must spend money in order to save money. The principal source from which they can obtain money for enlargements and improvements is the investing public. Railway earnings, therefore, must be set and kept at a rate sufficient to encourage investment in railway securities on a large scale.

Take the Central of Georgia for example. Our freight business, as measured by the number of tons carried one mile, was 69 per cent greater in 1922 than in 1910. This 69 per cent increase in ton miles was performed with a decrease of .07 per cent in the number of freight train miles.

Longer and heavier trains were run. If the average freight train load had been in 1922 what it was in 1910, an increase in freight train miles of 72 per cent, instead of a decrease of .07 per cent, would have been required to handle our freight traffic of 1922. This would have meant that the direct costs of freight train operation (wages, fuel, lubricants and other supplies) would have been $1,726,047.52 greater in 1922 than they actually were.

This substantial saving in the cost of producing our freight service was effected by well-planned expenditures for improvements and extensions to our facilities. Old locomotives were replaced by those having greater tractive power, so that greater tonnage could be handled in a train; terminal facilities were enlarged; new yard tracks and new side tracks were laid; modern signals were installed; other improvements were made. Since 1910 the Central of Georgia Railway has expended $15,715,324 in this kind of work.

Efficient and up-to-date facilities must constantly be provided by the railroads to take care of the constantly increasing business resulting from the growth and development of the country. We must not allow the progress of our country to be limited by the lack of transportation facilities. At the same time, the factor of rates must be considered. The railroads must continue to invest heavily in the best cost-reducing facilities, so that they may be enabled to reduce expenses and thus to meet the requirements for the lowest possible rates without impairing their ability to render adequate service.

While our world trade is not a controlling factor in our prosperity, it is of great importance. It we are to compete successfully with other countries in world trade we must do no only a large export business but also an extensive import business. We cannot expect other countries to take our products unless we take theirs.

We should bear in mind that ours is a country of great distances. The extent of our land areas remote from the seaboard is such as necessarily to involve very much longer land hauls than exist in any other country in the world. This is another strong reason why we must take advantage of every opportunity that exists to provide transportation at the lowest possible rates. Our railroads, if they have the necessary public support, stand ready to install the modern facilities which make it possible to lower rates. This means that they must be freed from threats of premature rate reductions or other unconstructive treatment. Upon this kind of foundation must be based any reasonable hope for lower railway rates.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

W. A. WINBURN,
President, Central of Georgia Railway Company.

Savannah, Ga., December 15, 1923.
